- We're all about that Christ-compelled life—but what does that actually look like in the wild? Share a time when you tried to share your faith but things went horribly wrong (think: that awkward freshman year Bible dump or DoorDash evangelism to the pizza guy). What motives drove you then—love, guilt, FOMO?
- How has your past self (pre-Christ or early faith days) mismanaged evangelism like a bad social media curator? What “filters” do we need to ditch to represent Jesus as we really are—not just how we think we should act?
- When has someone's messy, non-polished story impacted you more than a theological PowerPoint? What did it mean to you, hearing their real struggle in light of your own real life?
- Verse 11 mentions ‘the fear of the Lord.’ How does trembling before God actually make us less obnoxious and condescending towards others? Does fearing God shrink our people-pleasing tendencies—or stoke performance anxiety?
