

ARRIVAL

We have arrived...

Wednesday, June 12, we arrived in Moshi, Tanzania. We had NO ISSUES! From weighing the bags in Houston to getting in the car at the Kilimanjaro Airport everything was smooth. Honestly, there were several things I was concerned about and Jesus took care of them all. Matthew did amazingly. He ate airplane food which is not something I expected at all. Since arriving he has shown all of the Tanzanian staff AI on their phones and how to use it. LOL!

As a team we worshipped together last night and the presence of God was so sweet. We have truly been directed here and cannot wait for Jesus to continue to reveal His plans.

On our way...it was hard to say good-bye.

A day at the market.

Many things on the agenda... Some of you have asked for a calendar of our events and I can give you a flexible schedule. This is Africa is a favorite saying and used all the time, including when discussing schedules. We plan something but it does not mean it will happen, there are many working parts to this thing called missions. For the rest of June we plan to camp in the Masai village, go to Zanzibar, visit churches, outreaches to the local universities, in which there will be an invitation to a worship service. We also will have meetings to plan the next steps as a team.

Please consider giving a donation. The rest of the Kecks arrive July 3. I cannot wait for us to be together in this land!

We are doing this below the budget that we had originally had. Ask the Lord if He would have you give!

A church we visited, it was good to see them again.

A new friend, coco!

Thank you for your support!
Love and blessings,
Paula
