

A BETTER QUESTION

The Better Question

If something about the world is broken and it breaks your heart, there's an opportunity to be a part of fixing it.

Discussion Questions:

1. On a scale from 1 to 10, how handy are you?
1 = I could possibly change AA batteries in an emergency.
10 = I'll rebuild the deck myself.
2. If something is broken and you're capable of fixing it, do you tackle it as soon as you're able? Do you hope for someone else to fix it? Do you typically just live with it being broken?
3. If you could push a button and change one thing in the world, what would it be? Why does that particular thing bother you? And to what degree does it bother you? (If you're unable to think of something, why do you think that is?)
4. What are you doing about it? If nothing, why?
5. What could you do? What's stopping you?

