

1. David's prayer life seems unique (prophets, ephods, direct messages from God). Is there anything a Christian should learn about prayer from watching David?
2. How does the betrayal David experiences prepare us to understand Jesus?
3. How can Christians strengthen each other's hand in God when we go through hard times?
4. How does this chapter demonstrate that "He's got the whole world in his hands," and why does that matter?
5. Should we be nervous when we see people in the Bible assume they are on God's side, when in reality they don't know God?
