

Sermon Questions: Luke 22:63–71

September 27, 2026

1. How might we be tempted to employ cruelty to accomplish justice? How might it undermine true justice?

2. In verses 67–68, Jesus seems to suggest that engaging with their questions would be futile. How do we determine when and how to respond to a hostile questioner?

3. In verse 68, Jesus points to his future seat at God’s right hand. How does knowing God has the final verdict affect how we respond when we are misunderstood, criticized, or treated unfairly?

4. At the heart of Jesus’ trial is his identity. What would be lost if we thought of Jesus as merely a good teacher or prophet, as opposed to the Son of God?

5. Luke emphasizes that though Jesus is on trial, he is the just one and is being treated unjustly. Why is it so important for Luke to demonstrate that Jesus is innocent?
