PICNIC AT THE PARK IS TODAY!

After the morning service, meet us at the new playground at Municipal Park for a time of play and sack lunches for the kids!

Children like connecting the dots. It is fun to start off with a bunch of dots that appeared to be random and watch the mystery resolved as the dots were connected.

Growing in one's faith is also like a game of connecting the dots. That's because it involves a process of discovering the relationship between the things Christians are supposed to do and the meaning behind those things. The Lord's Supper for example, on its own, it is like a floating dot. Unleavened bread and the cup are but bread and wine, waiting to be connected to something. So, Jesus on the night He was betrayed He connected the Paschal meal to His death. This connection made their meaning clear.

Of course, in the game of connecting the dots, there is always the danger that we might connect the wrong dots. Likewise, in the Christian life, we must avoid connecting God's dots to the wrong things. For example, some have mistakenly connected the baptism dot to their salvation when what it should be connected to is the Great Commission. When we make the right connection, we understand that it's supposed to be a witness to a watching world, performed by those who have already been saved. Once the dot of baptism is connected to the right thing, God's intentions become evident.

"And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it; For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins."

Matthew 26:26-28
