

Is There Room for Me?

Discussion Questions

1. The sermon begins with “Call me if you need anything.” Have you ever assumed an invitation didn’t include your particular situation? How might you do something similar with God’s mercy?

2. What stands out about God directing Philip toward this particular traveler? How does that challenge the way we measure our significance to God?

3. Read Isaiah 56:3–5. What does God promise, and how does he describe the people receiving that promise? How does this help distinguish an unchangeable circumstance from a refusal to turn from sin?

4. The eunuch asks, “What prevents me from being baptized?” What does Philip’s response reveal? Is there something in your own story that makes you feel you belong “a little less” among God’s people? Share only what you’re comfortable sharing.

5. The man continues his journey rejoicing, although his body and history remain unchanged. What would taking your next step as someone who belongs to Christ look like this week?

These questions should spark deeper reflection and meaningful conversation about the key points of the sermon.
