The Grace That Calls Forth Our Yes
Discussion Questions

1. What stayed with you from this message? Was there a moment that encouraged you, challenged you, or made you reconsider something?
2. Peter asked, “Who was I to stand in God’s way?” When has God challenged an assumption you held about another person or group of people? How did that affect your willingness to welcome them or build a relationship?
3. Peter obeyed before he understood everything that would follow. Where might you be waiting for certainty before taking a step God has already made clear? What makes that step difficult?
4. Barnabas recognized God’s grace in a work he didn’t start and helped strengthen it. Where do you see God working in someone’s life, in CrossPoint, or in your community? How could your encouragement, experience, or gifts help nurture that work?
5. The believers in Antioch responded to the needs of people beyond their immediate community, each according to their ability. Whose needs have you noticed but thought of as someone else’s responsibility? What could saying yes to God look like this week, with what you actually have to offer?

These questions should spark deeper reflection and meaningful conversation about the key points of the sermon.
