The Apostle Paul is a prisoner of Rome because he bravely preached the gospel. The gospel is the good news that Jesus Christ died to pay the penalty for our sins, was buried to prove he died, was raised to prove his payment was received by God, and appeared to many to prove he was raised from the dead. And then, God permitted these eyewitnesses to suffer greatly for their testimony to prove their testimony was credible. Paul should know since he was one of the people the risen Jesus appeared to and no one suffered more for their testimony than he did (1 Corinthians 15:1–11).
