
LITERATUS LINGUA

MRS. WEIDER

Grammar/ Literature

This week scholars will keep working in Chapter 9 of Shurley English. We are working on a somewhat tricky skill: writing and punctuating dialogue with direct quotes. We will practice this skill several times before we delve into using this in a short fable/ story of our own.

In studying The Hobbit, we have the opportunity to ask several questions regarding virtue and morals. Currently we are considering what/ who are hero is, what is a “noble quest”, did the dwarves greed draw the dragon to them, and how is Bilbo like “every man”? This helps us to use this story to consider our own stories as well.

Oratio

I am looking forward to seeing this fantastic event in action! Please be on the lookout for information about Oratio 2026. The Logic scholars will be discussing Oratio on Monday, February 9. They will be given a packet with Oratio literature choices and important dates. 6A and 6B will join grade 7 and 8 in “Oratio Draft Day” on Friday, February 13. After this, though we will spend a bit of time each day to practice, scholars should plan to use time at home to practice their selection.

"This was different from other educational theaters in that we used games to teach them, and we had to show that to the kids and to the parents. Because they thought, 'oh we were just playing games,' but no. See how this principle is implemented in here? As to other theaters I've worked in, it's very much like, 'okay we're going to teach you how to act right now, but we didn't tell them. We were just playing games.'"
