~ HEAVEN ~

I'm moving. Moving permanently. The Lord has promised me a place in heaven (1st John 5:13, Romans 8:15-17) and I have the ticket (Colossians 1:23, 27). While the departure time as not been revealed yet, I'm ready. This 93-year-old body is near the end of its useful life. It takes lots of pills and preventives to keep it going. The new body will last forever (1st Corinthians 15:42, 50, 52).

I am moving to a society without gender. Being able to reproduce children has been an enriching part of life on earth but will not be part of the heavenly scene. The angels don't marry and neither will we (Mark 12:25).

I'm moving to heaven where I will know everybody. There will be a heavenly feast with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. I have never met them, but I will know them then (Matthew 8:11). No more racking my memory to recall who people are. Names will be automatic.

There will be no tears in heaven (Revelation 7:15-17). They will be wiped away by God. Such love! Lots of threatening events have brought tears to our earthly sojourn, but those will not concern us in heaven. They may even be forgotten.

If Isaiah 65:17 is talking about heaven, then bad memories are forgotten. According to verse 16, even the Lord will forget the evils of earth. We won't be discussing how we were mistreated because we can't remember it.
