

Last week I changed it up a bit and tried to show relevant information surrounding

- The theme is Genesis 6, as it was in the days of Noah.

I tripped over an article as did the author (& supporting) thinking aerosol vax = aerial spray not nasal – my bad.

Now, why would I think that a government would knowingly spray a known bioweapon on their population without their knowing?

In the early 1950s, the U.S. Army Chemical Corps prepared a series of biological weapons tests in multiple cities across the United States and Canada. These experiments were executed in the mid-1950s through the late 1960s—not before a law was passed to shield private military contractors from all liability for public injury
From NIH.Gov

U.S. Army sponsored a variety of tests during the 1950s and 1960s to understand how biologic weapons disperse in various environments. As part of the tests, the Army released particles of zinc cadmium sulfide from airplanes, rooftops, and moving vehicles in 33 locations, mostly cities and towns, in the United States and Canada.

San Fran bioweapon experiment (1 of hundreds from 50s to 60s)

Beginning on September 26, 1950, the crew of a U.S. Navy minesweeper ship spent six days spraying Serratia marcescens into the air about two miles off the northern California coast. The project was called “Operation Sea Spray,” and its aim was to determine the susceptibility of a big city like San Francisco to a bioweapon attack by terrorists.

In the following days, the military took samples at 43 sites to track the bacteria's spread, and found that it had quickly infested not only the city but surrounding suburbs as well. During the test, residents of these areas would have inhaled millions of bacterial spores. Clearly, their test showed, San Francisco and cities with similar size and topography could face germ warfare threats. “In this regard, the experiment was a success,” experts say subways and trains may be particularly vulnerable to chemical and biological attacks. Late last month, the Homeland Security Department released what they said was nontoxic gas into New York’s Grand Central Station to trace how chemicals might flow through the terminal in a terrorist attack.

Vanderbilt University was funded by the U.S. Public Health Service and involved 820 poor pregnant Caucasian women who were given tracer doses of radioactive iron in a “cocktail” drink. The researchers worked with the Tennessee State Department of Health and they did not inform the women what was in the drink, nor were they informed that they were part of an experiment.

Dr. Chester Southam injected live cancer cells into 22 elderly patients

He sought to learn whether people who were debilitated by cancer could reject cancer cells. None of the patients were informed about the risks — and were never informed that the experiment involved injecting live cancer cells.

USDA air dropping vaccines from helicopters across 13 states

- MSDS - All people should avoid contact, but young children, pregnant women, individuals with immune deficiencies or those on steroids should avoid contact with this vaccine.

Their argument (following articles) is that

- the mandates show they want us with nanotech in us,
- that they have the nanotech in aerosol form, and
- that they have the ability to introduce it into what they are already doing with airplane / helicopter / drone drops.
- You can see them doing this in China right now.

This study will determine the effectiveness of training church health ministers to educate their congregations about the safety and efficacy of COVID-19 vaccines and booster shots for decreasing vaccine hesitancy and improving testing knowledge in underserved Black communities.

- People will have a questionnaire,
- get counseled to get the shot by clergy
- 3wk later take another questionnaire

From Tufts U, Council on Emerging Markets (think tank)

The American thinker Richard Buckminster Fuller created the "Knowledge Doubling Curve" in 1982. He noticed that until 1900, the body of human knowledge doubled about once every 100 years. By the end of World War II, knowledge was doubling every 25 years. On average it's now taking a year, and the imminent explosion of device connectivity promises to cut it to weeks, days and even hours.

Who is knowledge doubling for? You?

Who controls the cutting edge knowledge? (corporate interests owned by the Superclass – Rothkopf)

- Is it possible that tech is so quickly outpacing us that the 4th Beast System could be being built all around us and we don't recognize it because we aren't keeping up? Or we are waiting for "proof" of every piece of information we get BEFORE we make a decision?

Ed Dowd – said this is the difference between scientists/engineers and stock analysts all doing stock analysis.

- Scientists & engineers are frozen to opine until all the data is in. This has its place
- Organic stock pickers "connect the dots" and run circles around the scientists.

That said...

Five years after historian Yuval Noah Harari told the WEF that humans were hackable and that organisms were algorithms, Harari's insights have been fully realized.

- Flipped – GrpLife = 40% excess mort, gen pop = ~32%. Why the diff?
- GrpLife employers mandated jabs, gen pop had a choice

This was corroborated with disability data from US DOL
