Summary

Pastor Carl preaches about renewing the mind by gaining God's perspective. He says we naturally see things with our physical eyes and focus on earthly concerns, but God wants us to transfer our vision from the temporary to His eternal kingdom. Pastor Carl explains we should look past surface-level problems and issues to see things spiritually, the way God sees past appearances to the root realities.

He asks God to teach the congregation to view life situations the way He does. Pastor Carl says we tend to respond based on our fleshly instincts and emotions, but God wants us to react according to His unchanging Word instead. He emphasizes that God's goal is to transform how we think by renewing our minds according to His perfect will and truth.

Pastor Carl defines renewing the mind as gaining God's viewpoint rather than relying on our limited human understanding. He asks God to help the people see themselves, others, and circumstances as He sees them - looking deeper than surface issues to the underlying spiritual dynamics at play. Pastor Carl wants the congregation to acknowledge that God perceives things differently and sees beyond what is visible with natural eyesight. He prays they would learn to view life through God's perspective rather than their own.
