1. How would describe the advantages of a discovery-based approach to Scriptures, especially when working with non-believers. (This is in reference to Discovery Bible Study. For information go to: [Discovery Bible Study – A safe place to see for yourself what the Bible says \(dbsguide.org\)](http://Discovery Bible Study – A safe place to see for yourself what the Bible says (dbsguide.org)))
2. Compare the state of mind of Uriah with that of King David as revealed in 1 Samuel 11:1-11. Considering this passage, as it relates to our gospel task, both locally and globally, what possible takeaways might we suggest for ourselves.
3. Suggest ways that we as believers can become 'determined servants' in doing God's work of reaching those around us with the gospel. See Luke 9:51
4. In relation to Kitchener and other communities around the church, and our work of making disciples, what practical ways might the Lord be saying to us, 'You give them something to eat' (Mark 6:37).
5. Brainstorm around the question, 'What's it going to take?' to reach the people (make disciples) of Kitchener with the gospel?
