

Where's the Faith? Living Faith vs. Dead Faith

Discussion Questions:

How would you explain the phrase “faith without works is dead” to someone who was new to the Bible? How would you explain it to someone from a background in legalism?

If you were going to fall into one of the ditches, which is the “lesser of two evils” – proper theology with no action or action rooted in shallow theology?

What are you supposed to do to make Christ known? What voiceless is God calling you to give a voice to? How are you going to give a voice to them?

What is RAC supposed to do to make Christ known? What voiceless is God calling us to give a voice to? How are we going to give a voice to them?

We talk about “connecting Rexdale to Jesus and to His mission”...is it just talk? Faith calls us to put action to that. What does that look like? How will you show “faith” at our 60th birthday party for the community on October 31?

Along the lines of the divorce analogy, which “parent” do you empathize with the most?

- Faith = truth
- Faith = actions

Which parent, if either, is Rexdale Alliance Church? Why do you say that one?

- “show your faith without your works” – theology/classroom
- “show your faith by your works”

What can/should be done to “reconcile the marriage”, so it would be a perfect mix of truth and love in action?
