

MESSAGE QUESTIONS

What emotions, thoughts or concepts pop into your head when you hear the term 'Dancing in the Minefields'?

How do we practice 'homo-thoo-mad-on' (homo = one / united together; thoo-mad-on = fierceness / passion / boiling up / fiery)? What has to happen before 'homo-thoo-mad-on' becomes a reality?

Which of the six tools for disarming landmines do you remember and stick with you? Which do you find most difficult to use?

Have you ever intentionally climbed out of a philosophical ditch to live out 'the third way'? Was it a hard climb? Did you compromise your principles or convictions in the process? What was the result?