Q1. What would be the implications if God was “people-centred” rather than prioritized his own glory? Why might we want God to prioritize His glory instead of us?

Q2. There’s cat theology (the cat thinks they’re god and everyone needs to serve them) and dog theology (the dog thinks those who cares for them is the god). What makes a “cat theology” christian and a “dog theology” christian?

Q3. What do you think it practically means to be emptied of ourselves and filled with the glory of God?

Q4. Have you witnessed the glory of God in your own life? Share your story.
