Does the idea of 'moving fences' scare you or excite you? Why?

The rabbi in the story said, "For Jewish people, the Bible is a mystery to solve, for you Christians, the Bible is a rule book to obey!" Do you agree or disagree? Why did you answer that way?

When it comes to Christ's calling-card, "He was full of grace and truth!", which of the two do you naturally gravitate to and appreciate more?

Jesus moved a lot of fences! What do you think are the practical challenges and potential opportunities in a church attempting to move some fences and let people get closer to Jesus?
