‘ASLSP’

Let me start off by saying that 20th century classical music is, by and large, “weird.” John Cage, a late 20th century composer, wrote an 8-page organ piece called “Organ2/ASLSP.” The “ASLSP” means “play it as slow as possible.”

Usually this organ piece takes more than an hour to complete. Yet, in 2009, an organist played the piece for 14 hours and 56 minutes. In 2022, the piece was played for over 16 hours. Not to be outdone, a custom organ was built in Halberstadt, Germany to play this piece. The performance on this custom organ began in 2001 and will not end until the year 2640 (an estimated 639 years). This is notable because on February 5th of this year, the organ piece changed chords for the first time in two years! How exciting for the listeners, I think.

I wonder if we treat our spiritual life and disciplines like this organ piece—“as slow as possible.” When knowing that we need to change behaviors and habits, we want to hold on to the old just a little longer and try to milk the patience of God in not changing right now (cf. 2 Peter 3:9).

I wonder if we don’t look at the end of our faith and move with urgency and diligence to get to that end of being spiritually mature, thus we move “as slow as possible” (cf. Ephesians 4:11-16; 2 Peter 1:3-8).

I wonder if we treat church work as elders, deacons, preachers, and members as if it is not imperative to move with purpose and so churches end up moving “as slow as possible.” One preacher described the church work where he was as, “waiting on snails” (cf. Romans 12:10-13).

I wonder if we treat the church’s obligation to reach the lost as something that can happen tomorrow and so we end up moving “as slow as possible.” We treat our friends and neighbors, family, and coworkers as an “I’ll-get-around-to-sharing-the-gospel-with-them-sometime” prospect and therefore we procrastinate until it’s too late (cf. 2 Cor. 6:1-2).

The God of Heaven is, of course, not John Cage. What He tells us to do, He tells us to do “diligently, urgently, fervently, zealously” because there IS an end coming. The hour is late. What we spend so much time lazily approaching, God counsels us, compels us, and implores us to get busy doing, growing, and maturing (2 Peter 3:18; Revelation 22:20).

SERMON NOTES

Where Are the Other Nine?

There is an old saying among lawyers that has been passed down through generations; “Never ask a question to which you don’t already know the answer.” You see this long-standing principle typically used in a courtroom setting when an attorney poses a question. Unlike on TV, the attorney is usually intending to emphasize a point rather than seek, new, factual information. Jesus, would have made an excellent attorney. Not only does he ask questions to make a point, but he also asks questions to promote reflection. These next couple of weeks we are going to look at two questions posed by Jesus, the first being “Where are the other nine?”

I. Breaking Down the Passage

- A. “As He entered the _____.
 - 1. It would have to be this way, they would not be _____ in the village.
- B. “He was met by ten lepers, who stood at a _____.
 - 1. These men had heard that Jesus was _____ and that he was _____.
- C. “Jesus have _____ on us.”
 - 1. They were asking for something they did not _____.
- D. “Go, and show yourselves to the priest, and as they went, they were _____.”
 - 1. Interesting mode of healing, as Jesus seems to do nothing special.
 - 2. Lev. _____.
- E. “Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, praising God with a loud voice; and he fell on his face at Jesus’ feet, giving him _____.
Now he was a _____.

II. Big Point 1: _____.

- A. From a thematic standpoint: We are the _____.
 - 1. We cry for _____, even though we do not deserve it.
 - 2. Jesus offers us healing from our _____.
 - 3. Now what will we do with that _____?

III. Big Point 2: _____.

EN ESPAÑOL

Notas Del Sermon - ¿Donde estan los otros nueve?

Hay un viejo dicho entre abogados que se ha transmitido de generación en generación; "Nunca hagas una pregunta cuya respuesta aún no sabes".

Este principio de larga data se utiliza típicamente en un tribunal cuando un abogado plantea una pregunta. A diferencia de lo que ocurre en la televisión, el abogado normalmente tiene la intención de enfatizar un punto en lugar de buscar información nueva y factual.

Jesús, habría sido un excelente abogado. No sólo hace preguntas para exponer un punto, sino que también hace preguntas para promover la reflexión. En las próximas semanas veremos dos preguntas.
