In November 1917, a letter sent by A. J. Balfour, the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to Lord Rothschild, stated that the British Government viewed with favor « the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people

Balfour Declaration » , proposed, as a location for the Jewish home, the territory of the biblical Palestine, an Ottoman-controlled area

In December 1917, Jerusalem, the most famous Palestinian city, was captured by the British army and the Palestine became again a name on the political map and, later, a new British dependency, as the Britain was awarded the League of Nations Mandate for Palestine in 1920 during the San Remo Conference.

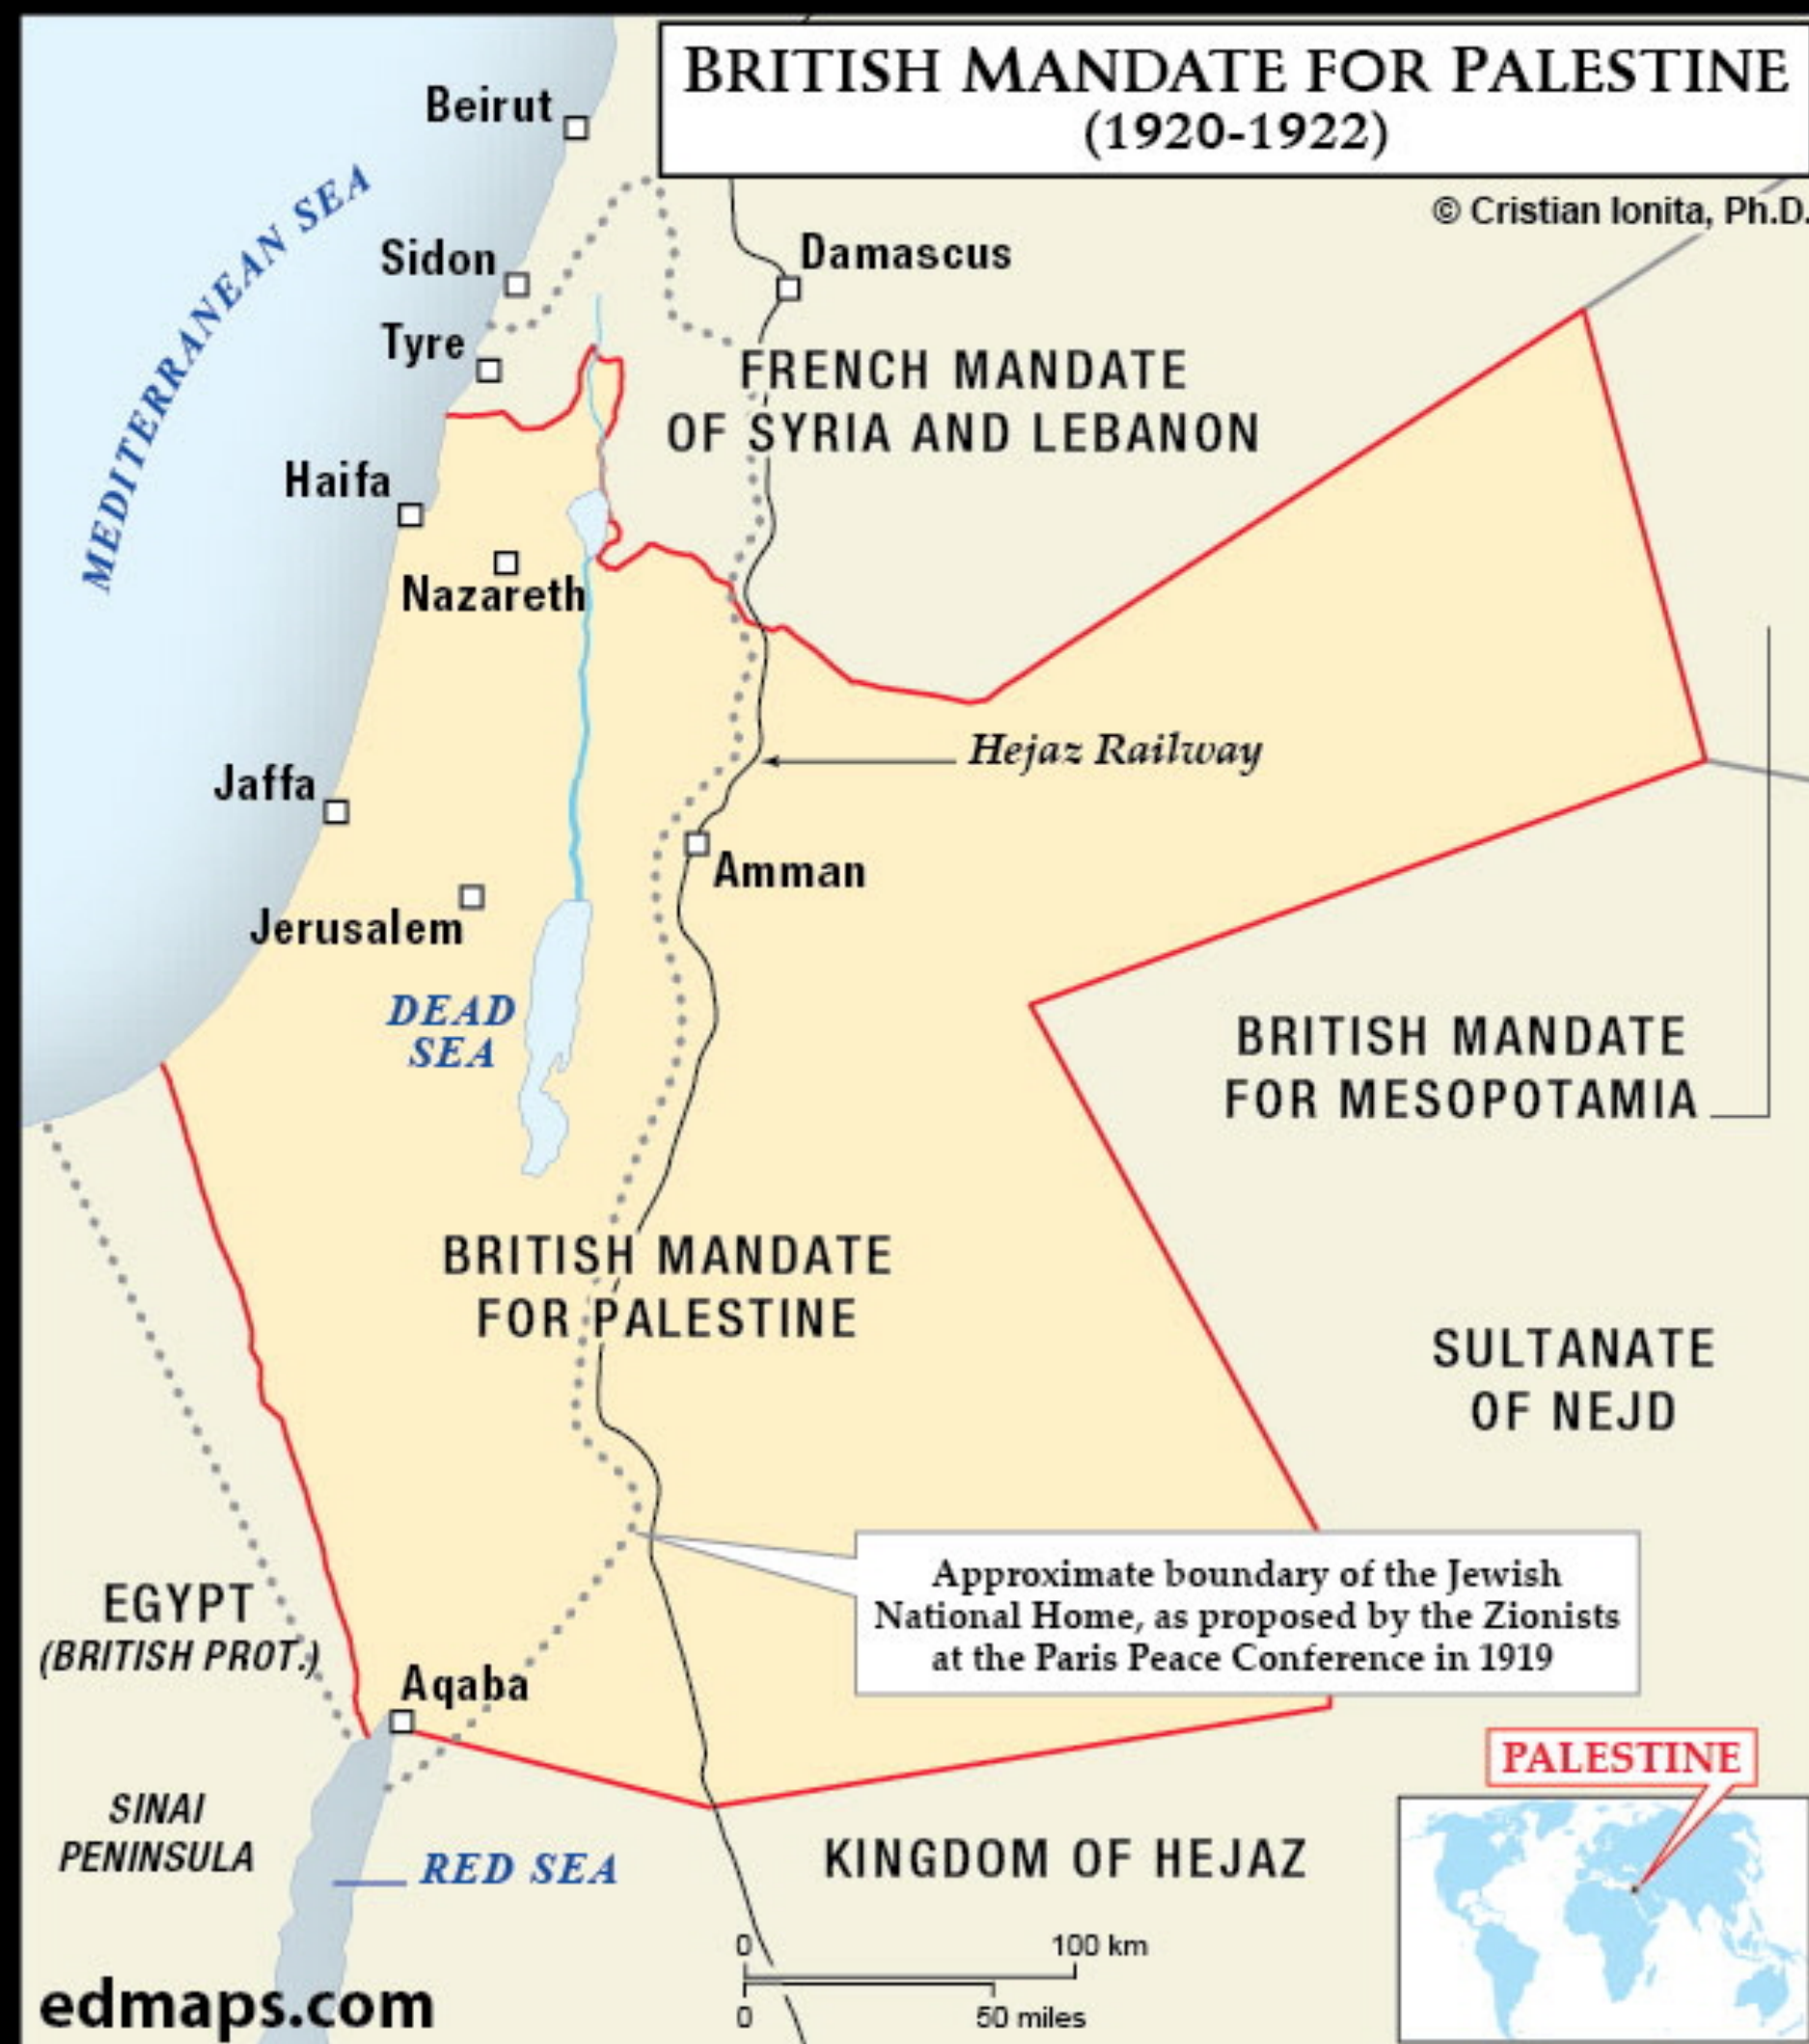

San Remo Conference

International meeting of the post-World War I Allied Supreme Council

Sanremo, Italy, from 19 to 26 April 1920.

Charged the British mandate with implementing the Balfour Declaration, which endorsed “the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people.”

The British Mandate for Palestine was based on the resolution adopted on April 25, 1920 between the Allied Powers and incorporated in the Balfour Declaration.

According to this resolution, the British Government was responsible for putting into effect the Balfour Declaration in favor of the establishment of a Palestinian home for the Jewish people,

On September 16, 1922, the League of Nations approved a British memorandum which excluded the eastern Palestine (Transjordan) from the articles related to the Jewish National Home.

The Mandate Palestine was divided between Palestine, under direct British rule, and Emirate of Transjordan, a semiautonomous entity under the rule of the Hashemite dynasty from the Kingdom of Hejaz.

One year after the 1936 Arab Revolt, a British Royal Commission of Inquiry headed by Lord Peel arrived at the conclusion that two national movements coexisted in Palestine, each espousing mutually conflicting aspirations.

Neither of the two national ideals permits of combination in the service of a single State.

The Peel Commission stated that the Mandate was unworkable and recommended, as a solution, the partition of Palestine.

In 1938, a Palestine Partition Commission (Woodhead Commission) was established to propose a detailed partition scheme for Palestine.

1947, Britain announced its intent to terminate the Mandate for Palestine, referring the matter of the future of Palestine to the United Nations.

1947, the UN General Assembly passed a resolution calling for Palestine to be divided between two new states (Arab and Jewish) and for the establishment of a Special International Regime for the City of Jerusalem.

The proposed Arab State (43% of the Mandatory Palestine)

The proposed Jewish State (55% of the Mandatory Palestine)

Six months later, in May 14, 1948, the British Mandate over Palestine expired.

The Jewish leaders proclaimed the State of Israel by virtue of natural and historic right and on the strength of the resolution of UN General Assembly.

U.S. President Harry S. Truman recognized the new nation on the same day.

British army left the Palestine and Arab armies from Egypt, Transjordan, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon invaded the newborn Israel in an effort to forestall the creation a Jewish state in Palestine.

It was the first of several wars fought between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

In 1967, after the Six-Day War, Israel regained the Sinai Peninsula and took control of the Gaza Strip, the West Bank, with the eastern Jerusalem, and the Golan Heights.

The Golan Heights would be annexed in 1981, but the Sinai Peninsula is returned to the Egypt in 1979-1982.

The Parable of the Fig Tree

In 1993, the PLO and Israel signed the Oslo Accords: the Palestinian Authority became an interim administrative body, established to assume the responsibilities of the Israeli military administration in populated Palestinian centers in the West Bank and Gaza Strip until the final status negotiations with Israel are concluded.

Hamas first employed suicide bombing in April 1993, five months before PLO leader Yasser Arafat and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin signed the Oslo Accords.

The historic pact established limited self-government for parts of the West Bank and Gaza under a newly created entity called the Palestinian Authority (PA).

The Palestinian people does not exist. The creation of a Palestinian state is only a means for continuing our struggle against the state of Israel for our Arab unity. In reality today there is no difference between Jordanians, Palestinians, Syrians and Lebanese. Only for political and tactical reasons do we speak today about the existence of a Palestinian people, since Arab national interests demand that we posit the existence of a distinct 'Palestinian people' to oppose Zionism.

4 But it so happened, when Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the wall, that he was furious and very indignant, and mocked the Jews. 2 And he spoke before his brethren and the army of Samaria, and said, “What are these feeble Jews doing? Will they fortify themselves? Will they offer sacrifices?

Nehemiah 4:1-3 New King James Version

Will they complete it in a day? Will they revive the stones from the heaps of rubbish—stones that are burned?”

24 For if you were cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and were grafted contrary to nature into a cultivated olive tree, how much more will these, who are natural branches, be grafted into their own olive tree?

25 For I do not desire, brethren, that you should be ignorant of this mystery, lest you should be wise in your own opinion, that blindness in part has happened to Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles has come in. 26 And so all Israel will be saved, as it is written:
