

Some people are claiming that the salvation story, immaculate conception, miracles, resurrection, etc. are present in many ancient cultures' stories and that it is told in the stars with the zodiac constellations. They go on to say that all religions are used to control the masses. What would be your rebuttal to these claims?

I keep seeing people say they only want good positive vibes and no negative vibes. Should Christians be providing positive vibes for these people and where do all these vibrations fit in scripture?

What about the guy in deep dark Africa who never hears the name of Jesus? Does he go to hell and if so, how's that fair?
