

The _____ (including
Jesus' own _____) were confused
about who
He was and what He was there to do.

Are there topics we avoid having conversations about out of the fear of what others in the Christian community might think?

What are some of the discussions that people are having about Jesus today?
How can we participate in those discussions well?

Jesus had done enough to prove that He was the long awaited
_____ and _____ who had come to bring
_____ and the living waters
of the _____
to all who were willing to entrust their lives to Him.

The leaders of Israel were focused on _____ and their _____ against Jesus
and thus completely
unwilling to examine the clear
_____
concerning Him.

What biases do people
have today to keep them from honestly engaging the person and work of Jesus?

Jesus is once again in Jerusalem defending Himself against the accusations of the religious leaders, clearing up the confusion of the crowds, and demonstrating once again that He was the long-awaited Prophet and Messiah who had come to bring salvation and the living waters of the Holy Spirit to all who were willing to entrust their lives to Him. Some responded by entrusting themselves fully to Jesus while others continued in their prejudice and doubt, the same faith divide that continues to exist today.
