Knowing God is supposed to be embedded and embodied in you. Not just what you have but who you are

Knowledge is not something you have but who you are –
Science backs this

Brain & Plasticity: the brain is not fixed – it can change with learning and repetition.

- The more you engage with something, the more you strengthen its neural circuits. (Make what you're learning STICK)
- Neural circuits are knowledge made physical – the brain's way of turning what you practice into who you are.
- “Cells that fire together, wire together”

ADAM & EVE:

It wasn't just their awareness that changed. Their entire state changed through disobedience that involved experiencing a way of knowing apart from God.
