

5 Day Devotional Based on Romans 10:14-21

---

Day 1: The Beauty of Proclaiming the Gospel

Reading: Romans 10:14-15; Ephesians 5:15

Devotional: Your life is a sermon. Every conversation, every decision, every scar you point back to Jesus — all of it declares the good news. Romans 10:15 reminds us that God calls beautiful the feet of those who carry the gospel forward. This is not a calling reserved for pastors or theologians. It belongs to every believer. The Greek behind "preach" means to announce, declare, and bring good news. You are that announcer. Walking wisely, as Ephesians 5:15 instructs, means your daily life becomes the proclamation. Ask yourself today: does the way I live announce Jesus to those watching?

Reflection Question: In what areas of your daily life could your actions more clearly point others toward Christ?

Practical Application: Identify one person in your life who needs to hear the gospel. Commit this week to living intentionally in front of them — not with perfection, but with honesty and purpose.

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Day 2: Faith Comes by Hearing

Reading: Romans 10:17; Galatians 3:2-5; Hebrews 4:2

Devotional: Faith is not manufactured by human effort. Romans 10:17 makes clear that faith arrives through hearing the Word of Christ. Galatians 3:2-5 presses this point further, asking whether the Spirit came through works of the law or through hearing with faith. The answer is obvious. You cannot save anyone. You cannot engineer a spiritual breakthrough in another person's heart. The Holy Spirit does that work. Your responsibility is to proclaim, love, pray, and point to Jesus. Release the burden of controlling outcomes. God deals in results. You deal in faithfulness. Preach the Word and trust the Spirit to do what only He can do.

Reflection Question: Have you been carrying the weight of trying to control how others respond to the gospel? What would it look like to surrender those outcomes to God?

Practical Application: Pray specifically for three people by name today. Ask God to open their hearts through the power of the Holy Spirit, and release the results entirely to Him.

This image shows a full page of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page, providing a template for handwriting practice or general writing. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the page.

Day 3: It Has Always Been About Jesus

Reading: Romans 10:20; Isaiah 65:1; John 14:6

Devotional: Isaiah 65:1 describes a God who says "Here I am, here I am" to people who were not even looking for Him. That is your story. Before Christ, you were chasing something — comfort, approval, pleasure, power. You were not searching for the one true God. He found you. The Gentiles did not earn inclusion through bloodline or religious devotion. God opened the door through Jesus alone. This truth levels every human category. No upbringing saves you. No education saves you. No religious heritage saves you. Jesus saves. He is not one option among many. He is the only answer to the only question that ultimately matters: what will you do with Jesus?

Reflection Question: What were you chasing before Christ found you? How does remembering that season deepen your gratitude for the gospel?

Practical Application: Write down a brief account of how God found you before you were seeking Him. Share it with someone this week as a testimony of His grace.

This image shows a full page of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page, providing a template for handwriting practice or general writing. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the page.

Day 4: Commissioned, Not Comfortable

Reading: Matthew 28:18-20; Ephesians 6:15

Devotional: Matthew 28:18-20 is not an invitation. It is a commission — a direct order from the One who holds all authority in heaven and on earth. Go. Preach. Baptize. Disciple. These are not suggestions for the spiritually advanced. They are the mission given to every believer.

Ephesians 6:15 reminds us that readiness does not come from your own preparation but from the gospel of peace itself. You are made ready by what Christ has already done. The church was never meant to be a place of permanent comfort. Salvation calls you out of the pew and into the world. The mission is not waiting for you to feel ready.

Reflection Question: In what ways has comfort become a substitute for obedience to the Great Commission in your life?

Practical Application: Take one concrete step this week toward gospel engagement outside the walls of your church — a conversation, a visit, a letter, or a deliberate act of service done in Jesus' name.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Day 5: The Church on Mission

Reading: Matthew 16:18; Romans 10:21; Acts 2:42-47

Devotional: Jesus declared that He would build His church and that the gates of hell would not prevail against it. That promise is not passive. The church is not a fortress hiding from the world — it is a people advancing into darkness with the light of the gospel. Romans 10:21 closes with the image of God holding out His hands all day long to a disobedient and contrary people. That is the posture of a God who does not give up. His church must reflect that same posture — arms open, gospel ready, love extended even to those who resist. You are part of something Jesus Himself is building. Live like it matters.

Reflection Question: How does your involvement in your local church reflect the mission Jesus gave His people? Where might God be calling you to greater engagement?

Practical Application: Commit to one specific role within your local church body this month — serving, discipling, welcoming, or giving — that moves you from spectator to participant in what Jesus is building.

This image shows a full page of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page, providing a template for handwriting practice or general writing. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the page.