III. Thriving In This Age

Mid-Week Devotion (Take time to pray & respond to the following)

Resisting the current and challenging the status quo can be difficult. Boldness might attract criticism, ridicule, and even lead to danger or personal injury. The wide road to destruction is crowded with those who accept worldly lies, following the masses without questioning. As Christ followers, we are called to walk the narrow road leading to eternal life—we must be truth seekers.

Truth is the unchanging standard of right and wrong and the sum of all that God has decreed. It is embodied in the Lord Jesus Christ. Those who sincerely desire to know and live in the truth will enter a personal relationship with Him.

To thrive in this age, we must be connected to the one source of power and truth. Drawing near to the Savior with devotion, longing, questions, and need is key. Doing so firmly roots one in the Kingdom of God. It is Jesus who takes us in and who keeps us in His Kingdom.

Prayerfully consider your desire for the truth and your effort to know and live in it. Ask God to embolden your heart as a seeker of truth.
