Mid-Week Devotion (Take time to pray & respond to the following)

Purpose does not end when we pass from this world into eternity; rather, it finds its fulfillment. For the Christian, death is not the end of meaning or purpose but the beginning of eternal life in the presence of God and His family, where perfect contentment dwells. Life in the New Heavens and New Earth will far surpass anything we can now imagine — a reality filled with meaningful activity, deep relationships, wonder, and growth. Scripture points to a vibrant, dynamic existence that is neither boring nor stagnant. We will have purpose in eternity.

Even now, as we await Christ's return or our own passing into His presence, how we wait matters. We are called to live with hope while actively striving to fulfill the Great Commission. The experience and wisdom we gain by living faithfully now prepares us for the eternal life to come — a life full of ongoing purpose from our Lord.

Are you faithfully waiting and serving? Are you living out His present purpose for you? Are you eager to discover the purposes He has prepared for you in eternity?

Prayerfully consider how God is leading you today, and ask Him to remove any distractions that hinder your growth and walk with Him.
