 - B. of rank: the most high God

Strong's Definitions [?]

(Strong's Definitions Legend)

ὑψιστος hupsistōs, hoop'-sis-tos; superlative from the base of G5311; highest, i.e. (masculine singular) the Supreme (God), or (neuter plural) the heavens:—most high, highest.

Anytime you have more than one person can you describe them as masculine singular?

Short answer: No.

You cannot describe a group of people using a masculine singular adjective or ending—unless the grammar of that language specifically requires a masculine plural form (not masculine singular).

Let me break it down clearly:

✓ 1. English

In English:

- One person (male): singular → "he is strong"
- Multiple people (mixed or all male): plural → "they are strong"

English does not use masculine singular for groups.

Your reward will be great, and you will be children of the Most High, for he himself is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked.

Luke 6:35

If Jesus was also the Most High he would have said, "for WE" like he uses "we" in John 14:23

🇬🇷 2. Greek (Koine or Modern)

Greek uses gender in adjectives and participles, but:

One person (masculine):

- Singular masculine ending
 - παράκλητος καλός (a good comforter)

More than one person (mixed or all male):

- Masculine plural, not masculine singular
 - καλοί άνθρωποι (good men or good people)

So in Greek:

Group → masculine plural. Never masculine singular.

🇪🇸 3. Spanish / Romance Languages

Same rule:

- 1 man: alto (masculine singular)
- 2 or more men: altos (masculine plural)
- mixed group: also altos

Again, masculine plural, not singular.

Why you cannot use masculine singular for a group

Masculine singular means:

- one
- male

A group is:

- more than one

So grammatically it's impossible.

Most languages allow masculine plural to represent:

- all men
- or mixed groups

But never masculine singular.

✓ 1. Hebrew Has a Normal Plural System

When talking about many people, Hebrew normally uses:

- Masculine plural → ם־ (-im)
- Feminine plural → ם־ות (-ot)

Examples:

- אָנָשִׁים — "men" (masc. plural)
- נָשִׁים — "women" (fem. plural)
- בָּנִים — "sons"
- בָּנוֹת — "daughters"

So plural is absolutely normal Hebrew.

➔ ✓ 2. Masculine Singular Can Describe Groups — But Only in Certain Situations

There are three major cases where Hebrew uses masculine singular for multiple people:

Case 1 — Instructions or Commands to the Whole Nation

Torah laws often speak to all Israel using masculine singular “you (sing.)”.

Example:

וְאַהַבְתָּ — “you (sing.) shall love”

Deut 6:5

→ But Moses is speaking to millions.

This is the most common example.

Case 2 — Collective Nouns Treated as One Unit

Groups treated as one “entity” get masculine singular verbs:

Examples:

- Israel (יִשְׂרָאֵל)
- Judah (יְהוּדָה)
- The remnant
- A nation, a people

“Israel sinS” (singular verb) even though Israel = millions.

Case 3 – Generic “person” statements

Masculine singular is used for anyone, “a person,” “whoever.”

Example:

אִישׁ = “man,” but often means a person.

Example rule:

“When a person (masc. singular) sins...”

Leviticus 4:27

→ applies to any person, male or female.

! BUT:

You cannot use masculine singular for multiple people in all situations.

Here’s when you cannot use masculine singular:

🚫 You Cannot Use Masculine Singular For:

1. Describing multiple individuals in narrative

No Hebrew writer would say:

✗ "the man walkS"

when meaning:

✓ "the men walk"

They would use plural.

2. Describing groups performing actions as individuals

If the grammar intends to say "they did _____," the verb is plural, not singular.

Example:

- הלכוּ — "they walked" (plural)
- ישבוּ — "they sat" (plural)

Using masculine singular would change the meaning.

3. Describing more than one specific male

Example:

- "David and Jonathan went."
→ always plural verb.

You cannot say:

✗ "David and Jonathan goes (singular)."

Summary

✓ Hebrew can use masculine singular when:

- speaking to the entire nation
- speaking of a collective group
- giving laws, instructions, commandments
- describing generic "any person" statements

✗ Hebrew does not use masculine singular when:

- describing multiple people doing something
- telling events about specific individuals
- meaning literal plural participants

Son

THE FATHER & SON

3 Grace be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

2 John 1:3 KJV

9 Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.

2 John 1:9 KJV

FATHER GAVE ALL THINGS TO THE SON

13 I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him.

14 And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.

DANIEL 7:13-14 KJV

18 And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth.

MATTHEW 28:18 KJV

FATHER GAVE LIFE & AUTHORITY TO THE SON

26 For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself;

27 And hath given him authority to execute judgment also, because he is the Son of man.

JOHN 5:26-27 KJV

2 Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds;

4 Being made so much better than the angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they.

HEBREWS 1:2,4 KJV

FATHER IS GREATER THAN THE SON

28 Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because I said, I go unto the Father: for my Father is greater than I.

JOHN 14:28 KJV

28 Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myself; but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things.

JOHN 8:28 KJV

THE SON CAME FROM THE FATHER

42 Jesus said unto them, If God were your Father, ye would love me: for I proceeded forth and came from God; neither came I of myself, but he sent me.

JOHN 8:42 KJV

27 For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God.

28 I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

JOHN 16:27-28 KJV

* SON EXISTS BECAUSE OF THE FATHER

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

JOHN 6:57 KJV

30 I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me.

31 If I bear witness of myself, my witness is not true.

JOHN 6:30-31 KJV

FATHER KNOWS THE DAY & HOUR

36 But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only.

MATTHEW 24:36 KJV

32 But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father.

MARK 13:32 KJV

1. Conjunction (Coordinating):

- “But” — introduces contrast with what was previously said or expected.

2. Prepositional Phrase:

- “concerning that day or that hour”
 - “concerning” = preposition
 - “that day” / “that hour” = noun phrases (objects of the preposition)
 - Joined by “or” (coordinating conjunction within the phrase)
 - ◆ This whole phrase sets the topic or subject of the sentence.

3. Main Clause:

- “no one knows”
 - “no one” = subject (indefinite pronoun)
 - “knows” = verb (present tense, active voice)

4. Negative Additions (with elliptical structure):

These are additive negatives that clarify who else does not know. They follow ellipsis (omitting repeated verbs like "knows").

a. "not even the angels in heaven"

- "not even" = negative intensifier
- "the angels in heaven" = noun phrase
 - "the angels" = noun + article
 - "in heaven" = prepositional phrase modifying "angels"

b. "nor the Son"

- "nor" = coordinating conjunction (used after a negative to continue listing negative subjects)
 - "the Son" = noun phrase

5. Contrastive Final Clause:

- "but only the Father"
 - "but" = coordinating conjunction (contrast)
 - "only" = adverb modifying
 - "the Father" = noun phrase (subject implied to know)

◆ This final clause completes the contrast: no one knows except the Father.

WILL

WILL

NOT masculine singular but plural.

In order for this to be true God the Father would have to be the Son. This is heresy (Modalism or Oneness)

This is NOT biblical and in error. There are TWO WILLS and the Bible teaches us that the Father's Will is GREATER than the Son. The Father & Son cannot BOTH be the Most High God. This is biblically and grammatically in ERROR!

The Father is the Most High God

The Son of God exists because of the Father. A simple question to ask.

Can the Father exist without the Son? Yes.

Can the Son exist without the Father? No.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

JOHN 6:57 KJV

26 For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself;

everlasting.

MICAH 5:2 KJV

2. “Whose origin is from everlasting”

Meaning

This describes a person whose origin (source, beginning, roots) are “from everlasting.” But origin typically implies a starting point—even if that starting point is in eternity.

Implication

- This can be understood as:
 “His beginning goes back into eternity.”
- It still implies a beginning, but that beginning is located in eternity past.
- It can also mean:
 “His lineage or source comes from eternity.”

Example (Biblical context: Micah 5:2)

Speaking of the Messiah:

“whose goings forth are from of old, from everlasting.”

The Hebrew phrase can mean “from ancient days,” “from eternity,” or “from long ages past.”

This phrase focuses on origin or coming forth, not simply existence.

OR'IGIN, n. [L. origo.]

1. The first existence or beginning of any thing; as the origin of Rome. In history it is necessary, if practicable, to trace all events to their origin.

2. Fountain; source; cause; that from which any thing primarily proceeds; that which gives existence or beginning. The apostasy is believed to have been the origin of moral evil. The origin of many of our customs is lost in antiquity. Nations, like individuals, are ambitious to trace their descent from an honorable origin.

Origin means beginning. The Son's beginning is from everlasting.

Definition of Eternal

KJV Translation Count — Total: 71x

The KJV translates Strong's G166 in the following manner: eternal (42x), everlasting (25x), the world began (with G5550) (2x), since the world began (with G5550) (1x), for ever (1x).

Outline of Biblical Usage [?]

- I. without beginning and end, that which always has been and always will be

The Father & Son

The Father has NO BEGINNING and is eternal.

The Son has A BEGINNING and is eternal.

The Father and Son are equal in nature (Divine/ God)

The Father gave all things to the Son and the Son will bring all things to be subject to the Father.

23 But each in its own order: Christ the first fruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ. 24 Then comes the end, when he hands over the kingdom to God the Father, after he has destroyed every ruler and every authority and power. 25 For he must reign until he has put all his enemies under his feet. 26 The last enemy to be destroyed is death. 27 For “God has put all things in subjection under his feet.” But when it says, “All things are put in subjection,” it is plain that this does not include the one who put all things in subjection under him. 28 When all things are subjected to him, then the Son himself will also be subjected to the one who put all things in subjection under him, so that God may be all in all.

1 Corinthians 15:23-28 NRSV

38 He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water.
