REFLECTION QUESTIONS:

1. When have you realized that you were struggling with pride in areas of your own strength and prosperity?
2. How do you feel that God can sovereignly and righteously cause others to prosper more than you, even those who don't even love Him?
3. If you are willing to accept the fact that you are no more deserving of God's mercy than anyone else, how should this affect the way you treat others, especially those who you find it more difficult to get along with?
4. How are you committing yourself to God's people (the local church) in a way that allows others to hold you accountable for your profession of faith? What are some ways you are making yourself available for constructive-criticism and encouragement for the sake of your soul?
