

The Good Life: Finding comfort in your Savior rather than your circumstances.
Romans 8:26-39

The Good Life is all about finding your comfort in the arms of your dear Savior rather than the circumstances surrounding you.

The same Spirit that leads us to hope for our future in Christ helps us to persevere in our faith through our present sufferings.

God's plan and purpose for everyone who loves Him is the same- to glorify Him with your life until you are with Him in glory.

In his goodness and grace God keeps His promise to you in Christ.

Pursue God's purpose and plan with your life

No one is saved against his or her will.

No one who calls upon the name of the Lord for salvation will be denied.

The promise that God has made to you cannot, and will not, be hindered by sin and the evil of others and the world.

Three ways God's promise encourages and comforts us in verses 28-30:

1. In your suffering stay faithful.
2. In the midst of your tribulations your salvation is secure.
3. Your tribulations are bad, but the future that waits for you is better and more glorious than you can even imagine.

Your suffering is not because God doesn't love you, but His love will see you through the present darkness you are facing.

In the middle of our suffering the Holy Spirit leads us to find our comfort in our Savior rather than our circumstances.

In the middle of your suffering the Holy Spirit reminds us that Jesus is with us in the fire. There is nothing, and no one, that can separate those who are in Christ from God's love.

Your circumstances will never be enough to give you peace, joy, contentment, and comfort in all things.

The Good Life is all about finding your comfort in the arms of your dear Savior rather than the circumstances surrounding you.
