

Redeemer: God's people represent Him to the world by obeying His Word.
Exodus 21-24

God's people represent Him to the world by obeying His Word.

God saved Israel to represent Him to the rest of the world.

God gives the law to the Israelites so that their way of life would represent Him.

1. The law serves as a mirror that reflects God's holiness and reveals our sinfulness.
2. The law serves to restrain evil and protect the righteous.
3. The law reveals what is pleasing to God.

God did not set us free to make a name for ourselves, God set us free to make much of Him.

God set us free from our slavery to sin so that we can live as servants of Him and one another.

1. This kind of love flows from knowing God's love and loving Him back.
2. This kind of love imitates Jesus and depends on the Holy Spirit.

You can't answer the question, "What would Jesus do?" if you don't know what Jesus did.

Jesus established a covenant with everyone who believes in Him for salvation.

We have to fight against the desire to abuse God's grace and instead persevere in our obedience to God.

God doesn't save people because they follow His Word, but those whom God saves are called to follow His Word.

Loving God and Loving Others:

1. Loving God by fleeing from sin and temptation
2. Loving God by pursuing holiness and by faithfully doing what He says
3. Loving others by serving and sharing the gospel with them.
4. Loving others by welcoming them in to God's family and teaching them what the Bible says.

God's people represent Him to the world by obeying His Word and loving others.
