SHREWD

Sermon Notes for Sunday, November 15, 2026. Based on Rev. Dr. Chris Heckert's sermon.

No slave can serve two masters; for a slave will either hate the one and love the other, or be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and wealth." – Luke 16:13

---

1. Generosity becomes conditional when we tell ourselves that _____ we receive more time, money, or space, _____ we will start giving.

2. Our future behavior with larger resources is almost always determined by our _____ behavior with what we currently have.

3. Generosity is not about having enough resources; it is literally about what we do with what we have based on what we _____.

4. In the Parable of the Dishonest Manager, the master commends the manager for his _____ and creativity in building relationships for his future.

5. Jesus warns that we cannot serve two masters, concluding that we cannot serve both God and _____.

6. Shifting our goal toward genuine generosity involves moving away from self-pity and distraction so we can actively _____ in relationships and show up for others.

Questions for Reflection

1. In what ways do you find yourself falling into "if/then" thinking regarding your time, talents, or finances? How can you practice small acts of generosity today rather than waiting for ideal future conditions?

2. Jesus notes how creative and driven people can be when pursuing financial or worldly goals. How can you bring that same level of innovation, intentionality, and focus to how you love your neighbors and serve your community?

3. Looking at the examples of leaders who stopped to check in, apologize, or pray with strangers in their grief, who in your circle or community needs you to show up for them this week—and what space will you create to do so?
