Call to Worship

Rev. Yeeun Kim

L: Come, people of God, come to the table of grace.

P: We come, hungry for hope, thirsty for love.

L: At this table, Christ breaks down dividing walls.

P: Here the outcast is welcomed; the broken are healed; and enemies become friends.

L: At this table, we join believers across every place and language.

P: One bread, one cup, one Lord, one faith.

L: So come, come with glad and generous hearts.

P: We come to praise God, to share in the breaking of bread, and to be sent out in love.

A: Come to the Table, where God makes us one.

COME TO THE TABLE

Sermon Notes for Sunday, October 5, 2025. Based on Rev. Yeeun Kim's sermon.

Day by day, as they spent much time together in the temple, they broke bread at home and ate their food with glad and generous hearts. – Acts 2:46

1. Communion is not about _____, but about _____.
2. The early Christians devoted themselves to four practices: teaching, _____, breaking _____, and _____.
3. Communion is _____ for the journey, not a _____ for the perfect.
4. The table was where barriers came down, where the _____ found a home, where the _____ found healing, where _____ became friends.
5. For Jesus, the table was always a place of _____-building.
6. World Communion Sunday reminds us: different languages, cultures, and traditions—yet one
_____.
7. Communion doesn't just invite us in—it _____ us _____.

Reflection Questions

1. The early Christians devoted themselves to teaching, fellowship, breaking bread, and prayer—among these four practices, which do you connect with most right now, and which do you find most challenging?
 2. John Wesley said Communion is “food for the journey, not a prize for the perfect.” How does this truth shape the way you approach the Lord's Table today?
 3. On World Communion Sunday, Christians everywhere gather at one table; what does it mean for you, both personally and as a church community, to “set another place at the table”?
