

Choosing the Right Gear — What Do I Really Need?

Proverbs 3:7-9 | November 15, 2026

A question to consider: Have I defined "enough" in a way that always requires more?

Comparison says, "I need what they have."

Fear says, "I'll never have enough."

Let's pray as Agur did:

- Pray for perspective.
- Pray for provision.

The God who provided for all of your yesterdays
is the same God who provides everything you need for today.

"So Abraham called that place The Lord Will Provide. And to this day it is said, 'On the mountain of the Lord it will be provided.'"

Genesis 22:14

STUDY QUESTIONS

GETTING STARTED:

Share a time when you prepared for something by taking far more than you actually needed. What drove that decision?

A DEEPER DIVE:

» Agur begins his prayer from a place of humility, admitting he lacks wisdom and understanding. In what ways does pride or self-sufficiency quietly creep into your own approach to God, and how might genuine humility change the way you pray?

» If God is not the starting point of our lives, we will never have enough. Where are you currently starting from, and what would it look like to reorient your life around God as the foundation?

» Agur prays for protection from falsehood and lies before he prays for any material provision. What specific lies about money, security, or success have you believed, and how have those lies shaped your decisions?

» Can you identify a specific area of your life where comparison has robbed you of gratitude for what God has already provided?

» The Israelites learned dependence on God through the daily provision of manna, yet when they entered the Promised Land, abundance caused them to drift from God. In what seasons of blessing or abundance have you found it hardest to remain dependent on Him?

» What does your relationship with money reveal about what you are actually trusting and serving in your daily life?

» The God who provided for all your yesterdays is the same God who will provide everything you need for today. Can you recall a specific moment in your past when God's provision was undeniable, and how does remembering that moment speak to a fear or need you are carrying right now?

NEXT STEPS:

» Identify your "ENOUGH" line: Take time this week to honestly define what "enough" looks like for your household. Write it down. Then ask yourself: Is this number driven by genuine need, or is it driven by comparison and fear?
