5-Day Bible Reading Plan and Devotional Guide

Theme: The Miracle in Giving

---

Day 1: The Heart Behind the Offering

Reading: Genesis 4:1-7

Devotional: Not every act of giving looks the same in God's eyes. Cain and Abel both brought offerings, yet God honored one and not the other. The difference was not the gift itself but the heart behind it. God sees past the outward gesture into the inner posture of the giver. A cheerful, faith-filled heart transforms an ordinary act into an act of worship. Ask yourself today whether your giving reflects gratitude or obligation. When you give from a place of genuine love for God, you master the sin that crouches at the door and open your life to His blessing.

Reflection: What does your attitude toward giving reveal about your trust in God?

Practical Application: Before your next act of giving, pause and examine your heart. Write down three specific ways God has provided for you this week and let that list shape your motivation.

Day 2: Honoring God Before Yourself

Reading: Malachi 3:8-12

Devotional: God does not mince words in Malachi. He calls withholding tithes and offerings robbery committed directly against Him. Yet within that same passage lies one of the most remarkable invitations in all of Scripture. God tells His people to test Him, to bring the whole tithe and watch what He does. He promises to open the windows of heaven and rebuke the forces that devour what He has blessed. This is not a transaction. It is a declaration of trust. When you honor God first with your resources, you are declaring that He is your source, your provider, and your sustainer above all else.

Reflection: In what areas of your life are you tempted to hold back from God what belongs to Him?

Practical Application: Take an honest look at your budget this week. Identify one concrete step you can take to prioritize giving to God before other expenses, and commit to it in prayer.

Day 3: Giving as an Act of Grace

Reading: 2 Corinthians 8:1-9

Devotional: The churches of Macedonia had very little by worldly standards, yet they gave with overflowing joy. Paul describes their generosity not as a duty but as a grace, a gift from God working through them. Generosity is not simply a financial discipline. It is a spiritual maturity that God develops in those who surrender their resources to Him. The ultimate example is Christ Himself, who though He was rich became poor so that through His poverty we might become rich. Every act of genuine generosity echoes the sacrifice of Jesus. When we give freely, we participate in the very nature of God revealed on the cross.

Reflection: How does the example of Christ's sacrifice reshape the way you think about your own generosity?

Practical Application: Find one person or ministry this week that cannot repay you, and bless them with your time, resources, or encouragement without expectation of return.

Day 4: Everything Belongs to Him

Reading: Leviticus 27:30-33

Devotional: The tithing laws in Leviticus establish a foundational truth that runs throughout all of Scripture: everything belongs to God. The tenth set apart under the rod was holy to the Lord regardless of its condition, whether strong or limping, whether convenient or costly. This principle dismantles the illusion that we are the ultimate owners of what we possess. We are stewards. God entrusts resources to us not so that we accumulate them for ourselves but so that we manage them in alignment with His purposes. When we internalize this truth, giving stops feeling like a loss and begins to feel like a privilege and an act of faithful stewardship.

Reflection: How would your relationship with money and possessions change if you genuinely saw yourself as a steward rather than an owner?

Practical Application: Choose one possession or financial resource you have been holding tightly. Pray over it and ask God to show you how He might want you to use it for His purposes.

Day 5: No Charge -- The Miracle of God's Love

Reading: Romans 8:31-39

Devotional: Paul asks in Romans 8 who can be against us if God is for us, and then points to the greatest proof of God's generosity: He did not spare His own Son but gave Him up for us all.

This is the foundation of every conversation about giving. God gave first. God gave most. God gave at the greatest possible cost. When we wrestle with releasing our resources, we need only look to the cross and remember that the debt of our sin was paid in full without charge to us. Our giving is never an attempt to repay what cannot be repaid. It is a response of gratitude to a God whose love has no limit and whose grace has no end.

Reflection: How does the reality of what God gave for you through Christ change the way you approach generosity in your own life?

Practical Application: Spend time in prayer today simply thanking God for what He has freely given you. Let that gratitude move you to one specific act of generosity this week, offered not out of obligation but out of love.
