

“This masterful, romantic tale is a theological reflection on divine providence. Artistically, the detailed style functions to create a charming and engaging tale. Theologically, the attention to detail suggests God’s providence in the particulars.” – Bruce Waltke

“It would require far more than common civility to volunteer to water ten thirsty camels.” – Bruce Waltke

“A woman who would volunteer to do this would be remarkably kind, generous and industrious.” – Kent Hughes

“As we overhear the servant recount more details, we see that the miracle of God’s provision was even more grand than suggested in the narrative itself.” – John Sailhamer

“Isaac is not a mere cog in God’s plan for the world, he is a hurting person for whom God cares...He gave Isaac someone to love, a wife, Rebekah. And someone to love him back.” – Dale Ralph Davis

“Read in the context of the whole Bible, Genesis 24 can be an encouragement to people who are not married to choose the ‘right,’ that is, godly, spouse.” – Tremper Longman

“The Song of Songs tells us that beauty has its place, but the sages put it in the right, secondary place.” – Tremper Longman

“Charm is deceitful, and beauty is vain, but a woman who fears the Lord is to be praised.” – Proverbs 31:30
