Welcome

September 25, 2022

Today, we begin a new series called, Risky Faith, Lessons from the Lives of Abraham and Sarah. Do I have enough faith? What is faith? How can I know when I have truly heard God's voice and need to act in obedience? How much faith do I need to make a difference? What happens when I am faithless? I bet most of us have asked ourselves these questions. Faith is believing in God and then acting upon that belief. It is not easy, because it often requires us to act in ways contrary to our natural desire to play it safe. In this series, you will see that playing it safe is not the right way to go. Really, playing it safe is deadly. Risk is right. I (Bob) will show you why in just a few moments. For now, I encourage you to read through Hebrews 11:8-12 in preparation for this morning's service.
