Fauci-Run Lab in Montana Experimented with Coronavirus Strain Year Before Pandemic¹

- Social media exploded with the news that Anthony Fauci ran a lab in Montana that experimented with a coronavirus strain a year before the pandemic.
- The western journal reports the national institute of health lab in Montana was conducting experiments with bats that focused on the spread of the virus.
- Dr. Fauci was the director of the NIAID from 1984 until his retirement in 2022.
- Per the NIAID, the lab in Montana is known as “a premier NIH facility for bio-medical research.”
- In the lab they experimented with bats to see if corona could infect and replicate in a group of 12 Egyptian fruit bats. The bats, interestingly, came from a zoo only a few miles from Camp David, the presidential retreat.

- They took samples from the bats' noses and throats and some of them were later euthanized, and their heart, liver, kidney, spleen, reproductive organs, and other major organs were analyzed.
- Anthony Bellotti, the founder of a watch dog group called white coat waste stated, “our investigation has uncovered the real-life horror story of how a shady roadside zoo whose curator was a NIH animal experimenter shipped off bats to a deadly government virus lab overseen by dr. Fauci to be infected with a coronavirus obtained directly from the Wuhan lab that experts believe caused covid.”
- It was already in the United States and scientists, under the leadership of dr. Fauci were experimenting with it to see the effects of the virus, how it spread, and whether it could jump from bat to humans.

Homeschooling Becomes Fastest Growing Form of Education in America ²

- Reasons parents are moving their kids to homeschooling include: The public education system removing prayer and God from school and replacing it with progressive ideas like CRT, gender theory, and the idea that kids can determine their gender.
- In addition to the attack on parental rights regarding what children are taught.
- During a recent interview, Kirk Cameron, who has been championing homeschooling stated that colleges actually prefer kids who are homeschooled.
- Homeschoolers are out of the box thinkers, initiative takers, strong, and well-rounded socially.
- Cameron credits homeschool accomplishments to the ability of parents to help their children see the world through the lens that God has given us

Paris: Stars of David Painted on Buildings in Paris Increasing Fears For Jews Across Europe³

- The star of David has been spray painted on buildings in Paris, heightening fears of antisemitism.
- The Times of Israel reports the Jewish symbol was painted in multiple spots across several buildings in the southern district of the French capitol.
- In other nearby towns the symbol was accompanied by inscriptions reading things like “Palestine will overcome.”
- The union of Jewish students of France are saying these depictions are being used in a similar manner to how jews were forced by the nazi regime to wear yellow stars, reminiscent of the 1930’s and the second world war which led to the murder of millions of Jews.
- The marking of the star of David of Jewish residents is occurring in berlin as well. These are being taken as a direct threat to jew.
