Article Link: <https://www2.cbn.com/news/politics/historic-decision-house-impeaches-sitting-cabinet-member-first-time-150-years>

Key Talking Points:

- The republican led house of representatives just impeached a sitting cabinet member for the first time in 150 years.
- CBN news reports by the slimmest of margins, the house voted to impeach homeland security secretary Alejandro Mayorkas over his handling of the southern border.
- After failing last week, the house succeeded Tuesday night in its second attempt to impeach Mayorkas. It was an ultra-tight vote.
- "On this vote, the yays are 214, and the nays are 213. The resolution is adopted," said house speaker mike Johnson before slamming down the gavel to confirm the first impeachment of a sitting cabinet member in 150 years.
- The republican-led house accuses Mayorkas of refusing to enforce immigration laws – holding him accountable for Biden administration policies that have allowed millions of illegal border crossings since President Joe Biden took office.
- Marjorie Taylor Green said, "We did exactly what we should be doing. Now it's up to the senate to do their job."
- Democrats call the impeachment a political stunt. They, along with some republicans, say this is a policy disagreement, and there's no evidence of high crimes and misdemeanors.
- The senate is expected to receive the articles of impeachment from the house later this month. A two-thirds vote is needed there to remove Mayorkas, but it's highly unlikely the measure will be taken up in the democrat-controlled senate.

- Speaker Johnson just killed the insane senate bill with more Ukraine aid and all of a sudden leaks reveal mike turner's alarm of a national security threat regarding Russia—which many are calling a diversion.
- The gateway pundit reports according to a leak to CNN, the threat is "related to Russia"---and is very vague and very sensitive.

- They stated, “One of the sources who has seen the intelligence confirmed that “it is, in fact, a highly concerning and destabilizing” Russian capability “that we were recently made aware of.”
- The house intel committee made the announcement shortly after speaker mike Johnson shut down the senate aid bill which allocated billions of dollars to Ukraine.
- House speaker Mike Johnson on Wednesday morning shut down the senate’s foreign aid bill and blasted Joe Biden in a fiery press conference. If passed, the senate’s $118.28 billion national security supplemental package would have allocated $60 billion in military aid to Ukraine.
- Only $20.23 billion was allocated to secure the us border amid an unprecedented invasion of military-age males from Africa, the middle east, Latin America, and China.
- The $95 billion package died in the house. Speaker Johnson effectively shut it down.
- As the gateway pundit points out all of a sudden there is a national security threat related to Russia and mike turner is sounding the alarm.

In the News (Topic 3 of 6) VIRGINIA SENATE PASSES BILL TO GIVE MEDICAID-STYLE HEALTH INSURANCE TO ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS

Article: Virginia Senate Passes Bill to Give Medicaid-Style Health Insurance to Illegal Immigrants

Article Link: https://thepostmillennial.com/virginia-senate-passes-bill-to-give-medicaid-style-health-insurance-to-illegal-immigrants?utm_campaign=64483

Key Talking Points:

- In Virginia news, the democratic run senate passed a bill to give Medicaid style health insurance to illegal immigrants.
- The post millennial reports sb231 bears similarities in eligibility to the Medicaid program in the state but states that it is to "establish a program to provide state-funded comprehensive health care coverage for individuals in the commonwealth who (i) are under 19 years of age" who "but for their immigration status would be eligible for medical assistance services through the commonwealth's program of medical assistance services established under the social security act.
- Illegal immigrant families who are at 205% of the federal poverty level or earn about $51,000 per year for a three-person family, would be eligible to access the health care.
- Republican state Sen. Glen Sturtevant spoke about the bill, saying: "This session, Virginia democrats have introduced bills that directly incentivize illegal immigration...they want to grant illegal immigrants driver's licenses that are valid for up to eight years. Now, they're also working to divert limited resources from low-income Virginians to pay for healthcare for illegal immigrants. That will cost Virginia taxpayers more than $100 million just in this decade." He went on to say...
- These bad policies jeopardize not just Virginia’s healthcare system but create perverse incentives that illegal immigrants will see as a green light to travel to Virginia for free schooling, driver's licenses, and now, free healthcare—we have seen the mess that sanctuary city policies have created in places like Chicago and New York. We must protect the rule of law in Virginia and ensure that Virginia citizens come first."
- It will be up to Governor Youngkin to either approve or veto the bill. This just shows how the mess at the border will not fall on the taxpayers to clean up. In addition, this is all moving towards creating a permanent democratic majority voting base.

- A republican insider "close to the situation" told the post that Mr. Soros could be making the election-year purchase in a bid to influence public opinion.
- As the gateway pundit points out the left despises conservative talk radio. Do you think Soros owned stations will allow it?

In the News (Topic 5 of 6) Sunspot Cluster: Risk Rising for Solar Storm That Could Fry the Power Grid

Article: NASA Detects Big Sunspot Cluster: Risk Rising for Solar Storm That Could Fry the Power Grid

Video Link: <https://twitter.com/NASASun/status/1756724929771303386?s=20>

Key Talking Points:

- In science news, NASA has detected a sunspot cluster, which indicates a risk for a solar storm that could effectively fry the power grid.
- CBN news reports NASA has identified a large cluster of sunspots or dark spots on the sun that have grown in size over the last month and could increase the risk of the earth experiencing strong solar flares.
- The sun's surface is growing more active, and serious anomalies can happen when that takes place. While that's great news for amateur astronomers who are set to see some amazing solar fireworks through their telescopes, it could be bad news for power grids and communication satellites circling the earth.
- According to space.com solar flares occur when magnetic energy builds up in the solar atmosphere and is released in an intense burst of electromagnetic radiation.
- This burst of energy can impact radio communications, electric power grids, navigation signals, and pose risks to spacecraft and astronauts.
- On Friday, NASA announced that the sun released a strong solar flare classified as level x, meaning the most intense category.
- The x-class flare caused extensive radio blackouts. Traveling at the speed of light, the radiation reached earth in just over eight minutes, causing shortwave radio blackouts on the sunlit portion of the planet, which included south America, Africa, and the southern Atlantic.

- The U.S. space agency on Sunday posted its weekly space weather report to x, along with a little more than three-minute video of the sun's activity over the past week.
- As CBN news reported in December 2021, grid operators in some regions of the country have been heeding warnings to prepare for solar storms and sunspots blasting particles into space. And they continue to be on the lookout as solar storms could be catastrophic and cause widespread power outages.
- For example, in 1972, a solar storm caused as many as 4,000 magnetically sensitive mines in the waters off Vietnam to detonate, while briefly fooling a U.S. department of defense satellite into thinking that the Russians had just set off a nuclear bomb. In 1989, another storm knocked out power in Quebec for nine hours.
- All of this leading to several organizations including NASA to closely monitor the activities of these storms and the sun.

- Speaking of illegal spying on political candidates or everyday Americans in general, here is President Biden's national security advisor Jake Sullivan who gave his opinion about an amendment to the FISA Act (the foreign intelligence surveillance act), where he says he supports not requiring a warrant for surveillance—meaning they could survey whomever they wanted, and any time and this authority would be unchecked. Here are the words out of his own mouth.
