

Making Time is Never Easy

January 17, 2026

Psalms 90:12 “So teach us to number our days that we may get a heart of wisdom.”

When I look back on my early twenties, I remember working a fulltime job, remodeling homes on the side, and preparing to start a family with my wife. In those days, I often believed life couldn't get any busier. I kept thinking that if I could just finish the next project, things would finally slow down, and I'd be able to rest and enjoy what God had blessed me with.

But as the years passed and our first child was born, I found myself repeating the same thought — surely life couldn't get any busier. I told myself that once we got our daughter out of diapers, things would get easier. Then we welcomed two more children, and I realized how naïve my younger self had been. Life doesn't slow down and God wants us to recognize this truth before it's too late.

Time is a sacred gift from the Lord. Scripture reminds us that every day carries purpose, and every moment is an opportunity to grow in wisdom. God doesn't ask us to wait for life to calm down before we seek Him — He calls us to walk with Him in the middle of the busyness, the noise, and the responsibilities.

Each moment we are given should be intentionally used for a Godly purpose. God has entrusted us with precious time so we can enjoy His blessings, glorify His name, and live out our faith in front of those he has placed in our lives. Each day is not an accident; it's an opportunity to glorify our creator and to thank him for his many blessings.

So, in 2026, let's choose to spend our time wisely and to be intentional. Let's share God's love freely. Let's make a difference in the world around us by living with purpose, gratitude, and devotion.

May we be intentional with our time, focusing our hearts on what truly matters.

Let's make heaven crowded.
