

Sermon Highlights

Sermon Summary:

This sermon explores God's covenant with Noah after the flood, drawing parallels between this ancient promise and God's eternal covenant through Jesus Christ. It emphasizes the significance of blood in God's redemptive plan, the value of human life as image-bearers of God, and the assurance of God's faithfulness symbolized by the rainbow. Pastor Bruce Gordon highlights the transition from God's determined will to His permissive will in dealing with sinful humanity, ultimately pointing to salvation through faith in Jesus.

Key Points:

- God's blessing and instructions to Noah after the flood
- The significance of blood in God's plan for atonement
- The institution of capital punishment and the value of human life
- The difference between God's determined will and permissive will
- God's covenant promise symbolized by the rainbow
- The parallel between Noah's faith and salvation through belief in Christ

Scripture Reference:

- Genesis 9:1-17

Stories:

- Noah building the ark and surviving the flood
- God's covenant with Noah and the first appearance of the rainbow
- Brief mention of Adam and Eve's disobedience in the Garden of Eden