Jesus' words in Luke 6 can be hard for us to digest (especially when we focus our minds on verses 24-26). In our affluent society, we usually attempt to soften these words as if maybe Jesus did not fully intend to say them. Our key struggle involves our relentless pursuit of satisfaction. Living life satisfied with all that we attain seems easy because it requires no faith. It is almost as if we are completely expecting the wrong thing from the Christian life. Maybe it is time to redefine our expectations.

Today's Question: How should we redefine our expectations of what it means to follow Jesus?

1. We find _____ in ways the world does not understand (v. 20-23).
Who does Jesus say is blessed?

The _____ The _____

The _____ The _____, _____, _____, _____

Hebrews 11:36-38, 2 Corinthians 4:7-18

2. We stand in _____ when we align our pursuit to the pattern of this world (v. 24-26).

Who does Jesus say is to be warned?

The _____ The _____

The _____ The _____

Luke 12:13-21, 16-14, 19-31, 18-30, Heb 11:8-10, 1 Tim 3:7

What do we do with these warnings? How do I apply this to my life?

Key Truth: We live in ___ only when we pursue the coming kingdom.

Are you "_____ a homeland?"

Or are you "_____ in your homeland?"

Hebrews 11:13-14
