People love to talk about what they're passionate about. Whether you are an avid sports enthusiast or accomplished musician you love to share with others on the subject. This is especially true for those whose faith is on fire for Jesus. They love to tell others about Him.

Paul the Apostle had a consuming fire in his heart for Jesus. He often told others about Him and frequently shared his personal testimony of faith. For true believers, their personal testimony is one of the most powerful tools in their arsenal for telling others about Jesus.

In our text, Paul shared his personal testimony of faith before King Herod Agrippa II and almost persuaded him to become a believer.
