All In with Jordan Easley

How A Mother Becomes A Home Builder

Proverbs 14:1

INTRODUCTION	NOTES
Good mothers are homemakers. That's not a derogatory term, rather it's a biblical term. When you hear about a "homemaker," that isn't exclusively referring to stay-at-home moms, and it doesn't mean a woman can't work outside of the home. But what it does mean is that according to God's design, you, as a woman and as a mother, have responsibilities in your home and to your family. The Lord tells us that how you live your life today (with wisdom or with a lack of wisdom) will determine the future of your house tomorrow. In other words, you can be a home-breaker, or you can be a home-maker, and the Lord shows us in His word how a woman can walk in wisdom and build her house.
KEY POINTS
 1. What does a wife of noble character look like? She is trustworthy and dependable. She rewards her husband with good, not evil. She is a hard worker. She avoids being lazy. She's a good steward with what she has. She's strong. She's diligent. She's generous. She's a responsible caretaker.
 2. Two biblical principles for being a wise homemaker. A wise homemaker raises God's children as her own. She instructs them. She disciplines them. She protects them. A wise homemaker operates by the power of God. She blesses her family and is blessed by them.

All In with Jordan Easley

How A Mother Becomes A Home Builder

Proverbs 14:1

QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER

1.	How does the world's definition of a homemaker differ from God's definition in Scripture?
2.	Which of the qualities listed above would you like to improve upon with God's help?

3.	What are some other practical ways you can walk in wisdom when it comes to building your home and your family?