ROMANS 3:27-4:25

To diminish the perfectness
of the law is to diminish
the sufficiency of Christ's sacrifice.

A photograph of a classical building with white columns and a yellow text overlay. The text is white and reads: "Righteousness is accounted to us as we believe in God and His promises." The background shows a row of columns and a stone floor with shadows cast by the columns.

Righteousness is accounted to us as we believe in God and His promises.

OF OUR FAITH

A photograph of a classical building with large white columns and a yellow text overlay. The text is white and reads: "Faith, manifested by works, is the natural result of our understanding of the character of God." The background shows a row of columns and a stone floor with shadows cast by the columns.

Faith, manifested by works, is the natural result of our understanding of the character of God.

EXTENT OF OUR FAITH

Our faith is only as big as our perception of God.

EXECUTION
BY OUR FAITH

A photograph of a classical building with large columns, partially obscured by a yellow text box. The text is white and reads: "Faith rests in the sovereignty of God, positions your heart toward the promises of God and creates an expectation of the work of God." The background shows a row of columns and a stone floor with shadows cast by the columns.

Faith rests in the sovereignty of God, positions your heart toward the promises of God and creates an expectation of the work of God.
