THE SYNAGOGUE OF CAPHARNAUM

- Private houses buried under the artificial podium of the monumental synagogue
- Remains of a synagogue pre-dating the monumental synagogue
- Areas excavated by the Franciscan archaeologists Corbo and Loffreda in 1969-1981
- The monumental synagogue of IV-V century AD

The synagogue is made up of four units, namely the prayer hall, the eastern courtyard, the southern porch, and a side-room near the northwestern corner of the prayer hall.

The prayer hall, with the facade toward Jerusalem, is rectangular in ground plan. A stylobate divides the spacious central nave from the aisles. Stone benches were set along the eastern and western aisles. The focal point of the prayer hall was in the Jerusalem-oriented wall of the central nave.

The trapezoidal shape of the court was dictated by the line of the houses along the main north-south street of the town. Two staircases gave access to the unroofed porch.

Another staircase was on the northeastern corner of the courtyard. The synagogue was built almost entirely with limestone blocks. The decorative elements (lintels, cornices, capitals etc) leave the visitors spellbound. The synagogue is not earlier than the end of the fourth century AD according to the Franciscan archaeologists. Other archaeologists prefer a date in the late third century AD.

Under the monumental synagogue a basalt-stone wall was found, which is interpreted by the excavators as the remains of an earlier synagogue, either of the time of Jesus (according to Corbo) or of a later date. A first century AD stone pavement, found under the artificial podium of the monumental synagogue in the central area of the prayer hall, seems to belong to the synagogue built by a Roman centurion (Lc 7:5). Jesus visited several times that synagogue. The Gospel of John relates the speech of Jesus on the Bread of Life to that synagogue (John 6:59).

Under the side aisles of the prayer hall and in the area of the courtyard several remains of houses were found, with pottery of the Hellenistic and Roman periods.

The Rejected Stone

Psalm 118:16-29

CORNERSTONE

Jesus Christ

Main Point:

Let us live in thanksgiving & Joy to God
who has given us life, and salvation:
His rejected 'Stone' has become the
cornerstone!

CORNERSTONE

Jesus Christ

We need to have an attitude of gratitude – turn away from criticalness, negativity – when we fathom what God has done ‘it is marvelous in our eyes’ and we should rejoice! (verse 23)

CORNERSTONE

Jesus Christ

1. Rejected! Jesus referred to Himself as the Stone rejected by the builders (Jewish leaders).

Mark 12:10-11

CORNERSTONE

Jesus Christ

2. Chosen! Although rejected, He became the Cornerstone of a new 'building' – the church!

Acts 4:11-12

CORNERSTONE

Jesus Christ

3. Rebuilt! We are living stones being built into a 'spiritual house' – offering spiritual sacrifices to God through Jesus Christ!

1 Peter 2:4-6

CORNERSTONE

Jesus Christ

Let us rejoice in the Lord who is remaking us!
