

LOVE THAT HOLDS THE WORLD TOGETHER

Advent Sermon Notes

INTRODUCTION

Here's something we all know—even if we don't always say it out loud:

Diversity does not hold itself together. Love does.

- A home isn't held together because people are the same.
It's held together by love—by a father and a mother.
That's been true since the beginning, all the way back to Genesis.
- A neighborhood isn't held together by shared opinions.
It's held together by love of neighbor.
- A town, a city, even a nation only lasts as long as love endures between its people.

When love breaks down, everything else follows.
Homes fracture. Communities divide. Societies unravel.

That's not new. That's life after the fall.

And Advent speaks directly into that reality.

Jesus does not enter a peaceful, unified world.
He enters a divided one.
Not to scold it. Not to abandon it.
But to hold it together.

Scripture tells us how this works:

“Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ has been born of God, and everyone who loves the Father loves whoever has been born of Him.” (1 John 5:1)

To love God is to love God's family.

Advent is God saying:

“I'm coming to create a family that can actually stay together.”

POINT 1 — GOD SENDS LOVE INTO THE WORLD

Isaiah doesn't give Israel ideas.
He gives them names.

- Immanuel — God with us
- Wonderful Counselor — wisdom when we're confused
- Mighty God — strength when we're weak
- Everlasting Father — faithfulness that doesn't quit
- Prince of Peace — peace that restores what's broken

For centuries, Israel carried those names like lanterns in the dark.

And Advent declares: God did not forget.

“The Word became flesh and dwelt among us.” (John 1:14)

God became what we are, to heal what we are.

But before Jesus preaches...

before He heals...

before He teaches anyone to love their enemies...

God places Love itself into a home.

And He entrusts that home to a man named Joseph.

POINT 2 — GOD ENTRUSTS LOVE TO A FAITHFUL FATHER

Joseph never speaks in Scripture.

But he listens—and that matters.

When God speaks, Joseph obeys.

- No delay.
- No debate.
- No negotiation.

When danger comes, Joseph uproots his entire life to protect the Child entrusted to him.

That's love.

Not talk. Not intention.

Action.

Joseph Helped Jesus Grow

Jesus didn't grow in a vacuum.

“Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.” (Luke 2:52)

That growth happened:

- In a real home
- At a real table
- In a real workshop

Jesus learned obedience.

He learned prayer.

He learned faithfulness.

Joseph didn't just protect Jesus.

He participated in God's work by forming the human life Christ assumed.

That is holy ground.

Jesus Saw Love Lived Out

Jesus didn't just hear teaching about love.

He watched it.

He watched Joseph:

- Protect Mary
- Obey God
- Sacrifice comfort and security

The One who would later say,

“Greater love has no one than this, that someone lay down his life for his friends,” first grew up watching a man lay down his life quietly, faithfully, every day.

FATHERHOOD EXHORTATION

Joseph's story isn't here to impress fathers.

It's here to encourage them.

God didn't ask Joseph to do everything at once.

He asked him to do the right thing at the right time for the good of those entrusted to him.

That's often what love looks like.

For me, that meant realizing something difficult.

There was a season when my work life looked productive—but my family needed me present.

Loving my family didn't mean working harder.

It meant re-ordering my life.

So we uprooted our family.

We moved—not because it was easy, but because protecting what mattered most required change.

And here's why I share that:

God chose you to be the father of your children.

Not by accident. Not beyond your capacity.

God knows your limits.

He knows your weaknesses.

And His grace meets you there.

Grace does not excuse responsibility—it enables it.

Joseph didn't protect Jesus by doing more.

He protected Him by listening closely and moving when God said, "Now."

Fatherhood isn't about control.

It's about attentiveness.

It's about being willing to move when love requires it.

SIDEBAR — A WORD TO MOTHERS

Mary shows us that love is often quiet, patient, and persevering.

She treasured these things and pondered them in her heart.

Mothers, you love like Mary when:

- You carry unseen burdens
- You nurture life faithfully
- You trust God before you understand what He's doing

The same God who chose Mary has chosen you.

He sees what no one else notices—and He honors it.

POINT 3 — CHRIST ENTERS OUR HUMANITY TO HEAL IT FROM THE INSIDE

This is the heart of Advent.

Jesus does not rescue humanity from a distance.

He enters it.

He takes on:

- A body
- A mind
- A will
- A family
- A history

Fully human—yet without sin.

That matters, because what is not assumed cannot be healed.

Jesus doesn't forgive humanity from the outside.

He heals it from the inside by living human life rightly.

Childhood is healed.

Work is healed.

Family life is healed.

Suffering is healed.

Christ does not bypass humanity.

He redeems it by faithfully living it.

“He is not ashamed to call them brothers.” (Hebrews 2:11)

By His wounds we are healed—not only forgiven, but made whole.

HOW THAT HEALING BECOMES OURS

Christ heals humanity in Himself.

The Spirit makes that healing ours as we live in obedient, brotherly love.

Love is not just spoken.
It is practiced.

Doing the right thing,
at the right time,
for the good of someone else.

That's what Joseph did.
That's what Christ does in us.

THE STRONGEST BOND IN HUMAN LIFE

We live among constituents, comrades, and confidants.
But Jesus says: "You are all brothers."

Christ creates a bond stronger than blood or nation.

THE GLUE THAT HOLDS EVERYTHING TOGETHER

Diversity does not hold itself together.
Love does.

"Above all these put on love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony." (Colossians 3:14)

This is not sentimental.
It is structural.

In Christ, brotherly love holds families, communities, and societies together.

CONCLUSION

"For God so loved the world..."

Love has come.
Love has a name.
Jesus.

He entered a divided world to heal it from the inside and form a family that can endure.

Joseph welcomed Him.
Now we welcome Him.

Joseph loved Him.

Now we love one another.

That is how the world holds together.
