PRAYER LIST

Please be in prayer for those on this list and those in your heart.

A Prayer for People Who Have Problems I May Not Know Anything About

Dear Lord, You know every detail of every person's life. We pray earnestly for wholeness and healing to be granted to these, Your children, knowing that their burdens are in Your hands. In Christ's name we pray, Amen.

Martha's Musings

Friends come in all shapes and sizes, from all walks of life, and you can encounter them literally everywhere. It helps if you are open to making a friend, but some caution is also needed. Being a senior citizen, I have had a lot of time to meet people and make friends, and I have developed a pretty good idea of some commonalities. For instance, a friend will appreciate your idiosyncrasies, probably because they have a few of their own. (NOTE: everyone has quirks. As long as it is nothing creepy – like a propensity for porn, breaking the law, etc.) A true friend is someone whom you can tell your secrets to – and they will remain secrets. A friend will tell you if you have spinach in your teeth, if your slip is showing, if toilet paper is stuck to your shoe, or if there is lipstick on your teeth. Basically, any social faux pas. Friends will congratulate you when things go well, cry with you when they do not, and laugh with you, not at you. Mainly, friends show up. If you ask for prayer, they pray. If illness has made it impossible for you to care about cooking, they bring food. A funny card will arrive in the mail, and a funny YouTube video arrives in your email. Anything to make you smile. And boy, do you need to smile. God put people on this earth so that we could meet and love and encourage one another. It is a really good system. I suggest we all take full advantage of it. God will be happy, your friends will be happy, and you will be happy. Win - Win - Win!

Blessings,
