Martha's Musings

We recently spent a weekend with relatives at Cedar Creek Lake in East Texas. It was storming when we arrived, and the waves and white caps were a sight to behold. I have seen that sort of thing on the ocean, but not on a lake. I was instantly reminded of Christ's fishing trip with the apostles when a storm suddenly came up and stirred the waters. The apostles were terrified. I could imagine this feeling, looking at the lake waters surging against the barriers behind the boat docks. If I had a choice, I would NOT go boating today. But the apostles did not have a choice, as they were already in a boat when the storm appeared. I am pretty sure that their boat was not a large triton, which is what my sister-in-law has. They were in the standard plain fishing boat common during those times. Were all of them strong swimmers? Scripture does not share this information with us. And life jackets are a modern invention, so those were not on the boat. What was available to them was the power of their friend, Jesus of Nazareth, the Son of God. Their friend spoke to the wind and sea and calmed them both – just by His words. If you have faith in the power of Christ, you have no need of anything else. Mind-blowing truth.

Blessings and Happy Easter,

Martha Arizpe, St. John's Prayer Team
