WEF members summoned to accelerate and advance the 'Great Reset'

The World Economic Forum has issued an urgent summons to world leaders to develop strategies to expedite its "Great Reset" globalist agenda.

The mysterious, corporate-led group of powerful world influencers will meet later this year to "accelerate the implementation" of the WEF's plans to create a Marxist-based society in which ruling governments will control access to food and other commodities, as well as housing and transportation, and where everyone will work for the “common good.”

The WEF and the United Nations stressed that, while the Great Reset, also known as “Agenda 2030,” is nearly halfway to completion, a meeting is “urgently needed” to speed up its implementation. The organization lamented that progress has been hampered in recent years by “unforeseen setbacks due to the COVID-19 pandemic, major negative impacts of climate change, and the rising cost of food and fuel everywhere due to the conflict in Ukraine.”

Frustration over these delays has prompted a call for a meeting to “strategize” methods to expedite what the Geneva-based organization has touted as “arguably the greatest-ever human endeavor undertaken to create peaceful, just, equal, and sustainable societies.”

The WEF is also actively pushing for “civic participation” to advance its Great Reset by targeting “economic inequality, gender imbalances, corruption, and environmental degradation.”

Countries begin negotiations on global agreement to protect world from future pandemic emergencies

Countries of the World Health Organization have begun negotiations on a global accord on pandemic prevention, preparedness and response, using the "zero draft" as a basis for negotiating an agreement to protect nations and communities from future pandemic emergencies.

Coming In 2024 - USA Will Give Reins To WHO Global Health Authority

In December 2021, members of the World Health Assembly agreed to draft an agreement under the Constitution of the World Health Organization (WHO) to strengthen the world's pandemic prevention, preparedness, and response. The plan has been to develop a draft, accept comments and amendments during 2023, and sign it into law in 2024.

An Intergovernmental Governing Body (IGB) has been drafting this document, and they will be accepting feedback from "relevant stakeholders" regarding the final draft, as well as the addition of amendments. There are about 220 relevant stakeholders participating in this. Not surprisingly, they include civil society, academic, and health groups; the pharmaceutical industry is also well-represented, along with agribusiness groups. Some of these negotiations have been open to the media. Many have not.

New WHO Pandemic Initiative Uses ‘Listening Surveillance Systems’ To Identify ‘Misinformation & Rumors.’

A new pandemic prevention initiative by the World Health Organization will rely on “social listening surveillance systems” to identify “rumors and misinformation,” War Room can reveal.

The initiative – Preparedness and Resilience for Emerging Threats (PRET) – seeks to “guide countries in pandemic planning” while “incorporat[ing] the latest tools and approaches for shared learning and collective action established during the COVID-19 pandemic.”

Internal documents from the United Nations (UN) agency, however, reveal a variety of invasive tactics deployed to suppress the spread of alleged “misinformation.” The WHO is pushing for member states – including the U.S. – to adopt these suggestions when developing or updating their respiratory pathogen pandemic plans.

Who Are the Newly Revealed Jeffrey Epstein Associates?

A multiple-part report from The Wall Street Journal has revealed a number of additional prominent people who were associates of Jeffrey Epstein’s. Their ties to the notorious sex trafficker and longtime high-society hobnobber were not previously known, having not appeared in Epstein’s infamous black book or in the public flight logs of passengers who traveled aboard his private jet before his jailhouse death in 2019 while awaiting trial.

The new reports also deepen public understanding of the ties between Epstein and some boldfaced names who he had previously been associated with. And they underscored just how frequently Epstein met with his high-flying pals. On Friday, the Journal delved into his packed itinerary for just one day — September 8, 2014, — and found that he planned to meet with four extremely wealthy men: Bill Gates, Leon Black, Thomas Pritzker, and Mortimer Zuckerman.

Ehud Barak, former Israeli prime minister
William Burns, CIA director
Joshua Cooper Ramo, a FedEx board member
Ariane de Rothschild, chairwoman of Edmond de Rothschild Group
Kathryn Ruemmler, Goldman Sachs general counsel
Lawrence Summers, ex-treasury secretary and Harvard president

The list goes on and on of globalist involved in this sick and twisted person who had his own "Sex Island". These are things we just know about, the things we don't know about are worse I am sure.

We see it all going along as planned!

Saddleback Church's LGBTQ Ministry Leader Joins 1946 Film Disputing Bible's Translation of the Word "Homosexual"

Earlier this year, we broke the story that Saddleback Church, formerly led by Rick Warren and now pastored by Andy Wood, had a pastor on staff who would be participating in a pro-LGBTQ conference at North Point Church along with Andy Stanley and others who promote homosexual sex. Upon further investigation, we found that Saddleback had its own pro-LGBTQ ministry in-house that is based on the same resource that Andy Stanley's church uses to encourage parents to affirm their children's homosexuality.

That resource is a ministry called "Embracing the Journey" which is led by Greg and Lynn McDonald, a husband and wife team who are both long-term members at North Point, as well as leaders in North Point's pro-LGBTQ ministry, Parent Connect.

‘Mysterious lights’ seen hovering in night sky over Las Vegas valley

What were the mysterious lights some residents saw over Las Vegas’ night sky Thursday night?

Every so often, residents of the Las Vegas valley report such sightings and catch the sparkling illuminations on video. UFOs, perhaps? Military training? The speculation spreads.

Often, the bright glow can be traced to parachute flares and perhaps aviation training of some sort. Maybe nearby Nellis Air Force Base or Creech Air Force Base is involved in some way.

The Air Force didn’t immediately respond to questions early Friday about whether any such activity could explain the video, shared by 8 News Now viewer Bill — he asked not to use his last name — who lives in the southeast valley.

“I’ve seen tourist helicopters flying around the Strip before, but this was so much bigger and brighter,” he said. “At the end there, it looks like a plane might be coming in to land at the (Harry Reid International) airport.

“It was weird. The lights hung out for about five minutes or so, and then they were gone.”

8 News Now is asking anyone who may have also seen the lights to reach out to say what you think you saw.

But don't worry you all are just a bunch of conspiracy nuts that are trying to force yourselves into the government to make everyone follow your rules. Well at least that is how the makers of this new documentary see it...

Praying for Armageddon is a political thriller that investigates the dangerous consequences of the fusion between Evangelical Christianity and American politics. Through years of reporting, this film not only reveals how structures of fundamentalism weaken the very fabric of American democracy, but also highlights the devastating impact religion wields on U.S. foreign policy. From a grassroots foundation and megachurch empires to the dark backroom maneuvering in Washington D.C., this film ventures inside a movement that ultimately aims to destroy our civilization. This deep dive into power and policy unveils how politicians driven by faith embrace Israel as the key to their prophetic vision for the end of days, at any cost, ultimately escalating the spirals of violence in the Middle East. As Intercept journalist Lee Fang says, "We cannot look away."
