US, Iran Will Hold Talks on Friday in Oman, White House Says

In an interview on Feb. 4, President Trump said the supreme leader in Iran ‘should be very worried.’

The United States will hold talks with Iran on Feb. 6 in Oman, a White House official told The Epoch Times.

The decision came after a breakdown in planning discussions on Wednesday due to rising tensions regarding the agenda.

The White House official said the meeting was rescheduled after several Arab and Muslim leaders urged the Trump administration on Wednesday afternoon not to withdraw from the talks. The meeting was originally scheduled to take place in Istanbul.

Iran accused of forcibly injecting detainees as deaths in custody rise

New testimonies allege that Iranian detainees, including injured protesters, are being forcibly injected with unidentified substances in prisons and detention centers

New testimonies emerging from Iran describe disturbing practices inside the country's prisons, detention centers, and hospitals, amid an ongoing crackdown on protests.

According to reports cited by opposition outlet Iran International, detainees are allegedly being forcibly injected with unidentified substances, a practice that activists link to a growing number of suspicious deaths in custody.

United Nations faces 'imminent financial collapse' without urgent action, UN chief says

The United Nations chief is warning that the world body faces "imminent financial collapse" unless its financial rules are overhauled or all 193 member nations pay their dues — a message likely directed at the United States and the billions it owes.

Secretary-General Antonio Guterres said in a letter to all U.N. member nations obtained Friday by The Associated Press that cash for its regular operating budget could run out by July, which could dramatically affect its operations.

"Either all member states honor their obligations to pay in full and on time — or member states must fundamentally overhaul our financial rules to prevent an imminent financial collapse," he said.

While Guterres didn't name any country in the letter, which was reported earlier by Reuters, the financial crisis comes as the U.S., traditionally the largest donor, has not paid its mandatory dues to the United Nations.

Europeans don't admit Greenland concessions, JD Vance says

European allies of the US have made more concessions to the US over Greenland than they publicly admit, Vice-President JD Vance has said.

"We definitely have gotten much more than we initially had," Vance said in an interview on the Megyn Kelly Show.

He suggested that the "framework of a future deal" - unveiled by President Donald Trump last month - would be of benefit to the US.

Trump's announcement came as a relief after mounting fear that the US was prepared to use force against fellow Nato ally Denmark to seize its semi-autonomous Arctic island. Trump says Greenland is necessary to defend against possible attacks from Russia and China.

White House touts Trump's 'bold vision' for towering Independence Arch for America 250

White House says proposed monument will be 'one of the most iconic landmarks' in the world

President Donald Trump is pushing plans for a massive triumphal arch in Washington, D.C., a project the White House says will become one of the most iconic landmarks in the world as critics warn the structure could visually dominate nearby memorials, including the Lincoln Memorial.

The White House defended the proposal in a statement to Fox News Digital, describing the monument as a central part of Trump's legacy and vision ahead of the nation's 250th anniversary.

"The Arch is going to be one of the most iconic landmarks not only in Washington, D.C., but throughout the world," White House spokesman Davis Ingle said.

"President Trump's bold vision will be imprinted upon the fabric of America and be felt by generations to come. His successes will continue to give the greatest Nation on earth — America — the glory it deserves."

Protesters Demonstrate Against Turning Point USA Make Heaven Crowded Event in Riverside

On Wednesday Jan. 22, Erika Kirk kicked off her organization, Turning Point USA's, Make Heaven Crowded 2026 Tour here in the Inland Empire. While the flier advertised Los Angeles, the first event of the national tour took place at Harvest Christian Church in Riverside. The tour honors Erika Kirk's late husband, Charlie Kirk, with a call for a Christian Revival.

By the time the event began, at least one hundred protesters were gathered outside of Harvest Church. They stood in protest of the injustices that have occurred under the Trump administration – of which Charlie Kirk was an influential ally. Dozens of protesters in attendance held signs denouncing ICE abducting people and separating families, the genocide in Gaza, and the lawsuits against Harvest Christian Fellowship and its lead pastor, Greg Laurie for alleged sexual abuse.

Protesters kept their spirits high as they chanted various slogans, passed out whistles, which they used to whistle the national anthem. They called out attendees of the events, asking them if they think their ancestors would be proud of them or if Erika Kirk is what Christianity stands for. An Erika Kirk impersonator also attended, singing on a microphone and leading chants such as “Give your money to me, not the poor.”

Don Lemon makes post-arrest appearance on ‘Jimmy Kimmel Live!’: ‘They want to instill fear’

Making his first major post-arrest television interview Monday on “Jimmy Kimmel Live!,” Don Lemon detailed the moments surrounding his incarceration and his experience as a journalist becoming the center of a news story.

“There’s a lot that I cannot say,” Lemon told Kimmel. “But what I will say is that I’m not a protester. I went there to be a journalist. I went there to chronicle and document and record what was happening. ... I do think that there is a difference between a protester and a journalist.”

Man Savagely Beaten By Texas High School Students at Anti-ICE Class Walkout Protest Is Arrested and Charged

A surprising turn of events has unfolded following a vicious fight at a Texas high school that went viral earlier this week.

As The Gateway Pundit's Kristinn Taylor reported, a mob of Hays Consolidated School District students in the Austin, Texas suburb of Kyle, savagely beat a man during an anti-ICE class walkout protest on campus Monday.

The video, which was first obtained by Real America's Voice reporter Brian Glenn, showed the man being swarmed by boys and girls who beat on him, chase him to his pickup truck, throw things at him, and scream vile insults.

One person in the mob was wearing a black shirt with the message, "Kill Your Local Ped*phile." Another, apparently a fellow teacher who tried to intervene, was wearing a black shirt with the message, "Choose Kindness Always."

Man Repeatedly Rams Car Into Chabad Headquarters in Brooklyn

A vehicle struck the entrance of Chabad-Lubavitch headquarters in Brooklyn, New York, on Wednesday night, damaging the doors of the building.

The incident occurred at the synagogue commonly known as 770 Eastern Parkway, Chabad's central headquarters. It took place on the 10th of Shvat (Yud Shvat), one of the most significant dates on the Chabad calendar.

No injuries were reported. The driver — identified as 36-year-old Dan Sohail of Carteret, New Jersey — was arrested at the scene. Authorities have not released information about a possible motive as the investigation continues.

Foreign National Arrested in Illegal Las Vegas Biolab Faces Felony Gun Charge
Authorities reported finding several firearms and passports during a raid on a house in a residential neighborhood on Jan. 31.

A man arrested by Las Vegas police during the raid of an allegedly illegal biolab in Las Vegas on Jan. 31 was charged after authorities discovered he was a foreign national in possession of several weapons.

Federal prosecutors on Feb. 2 charged Ori Salomon, 55, with a felony gun crime.

Salomon made an initial appearance in court on Feb. 3. He also faces a state charge connected to the disposal of hazardous waste.

The FBI and Las Vegas police raided a home on Sugar Springs Drive in northeast Las Vegas on Jan. 31 after finding evidence that it possibly contained an illegal setup connected to a similar biolab that was dismantled in California several years ago.

The Las Vegas home is owned by a Chinese national who was arrested in the California biolab case in 2023 on charges related to manufacturing illegal tests and substances.

More than 1,000 samples were taken from the Las Vegas home and sent for testing by the FBI.

LVMPD and FBI Provide Update on Joint Investigation

This afternoon, LVMPD Sheriff Kevin McMahon along with the FBI Special Agent in Charge Christopher Delzotto of the Las Vegas Field Office and Clark County Fire Department Chief Billy Samuels provided an update on a joint investigation involving a possible biological laboratory located inside a residence.

Starting in the morning hours of January 31, 2026, and ending early February 2, 2026, the LVMPD ARMOR team assisted the FBI, local fire departments, and other state partners with the collection of over one thousand pieces of evidence from a residence on Sugar Springs Drive in Northeast Las Vegas. LVMPD utilized several technology platforms to safely enter and assess the location before investigators entered the home. Some of that evidence included biological material and liquids that were meticulously collected and sent to FBI labs for testing.

Investigators have identified a suspect in this case as the owner of the residence on Sugar Springs Drive. That individual was already in federal custody on charges related to the investigation of a biolab in Reedley, California in 2023.

A second suspect, 55-year-old Ori Solomon, was arrested in conjunction with this investigation. Solomon is the property manager for the two properties on Sugar Springs Drive and Temple View Drive. He was booked into the Clark County Detention Center for disposing and discharging hazardous waste.

This remains an ongoing investigation.

Bill Gates, Elon Musk among big names in Epstein files. Here's what the latest documents show.

A slew of notable individuals appear in the latest Justice Department release of Jeffrey Epstein files, and the documents reveal new details about Epstein's ties to figures including Bill Gates, Elon Musk and former Prince Andrew.

The documents were released on Friday, more than 40 days after the Dec. 19 legal deadline for the Justice Department to release all files in line with the Epstein Files Transparency Act, which Congress passed and President Trump signed in November.

Earlier batches of files included emails and photos of prominent figures, including President Trump, former President Bill Clinton, Mick Jagger, Woody Allen, Larry Summers and others. They have not been accused of wrongdoing.

CBS News is still reviewing the documents independently and in collaboration with journalists from NBC, Versant and The Associated Press.

Two emails Epstein sent to himself on July 18, 2013, contain unverified allegations that Bill Gates had extramarital "sex with Russian girls" that resulted in a sexually transmitted infection requiring antibiotics. In one email, Epstein claimed Gates also sought to "surreptitiously give" the antibiotics to his then wife Melinda Gates.

Psychotic Disorders Rising in Younger Canadians Amid Higher Substance Use: Study

The annual incidence of psychotic disorders jumped by 60 percent among 14-20-year-olds between 1997 and 2023, according to the 30-year study.

The incidence of psychotic disorders has increased among younger Canadians, a trend that could be linked to a rise in the rates of substance use such as cannabis, according to a Feb. 2 peer-reviewed study published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal (CMAJ).

Researchers analyzed health administrative data of more than 12.23 million people from Ontario born between 1960 and 2009. They looked at diagnoses of schizophrenia spectrum disorder (SSD) and psychosis not otherwise specified (NOS), collectively referred to as psychotic disorders. The study assessed outcomes among these individuals over a 30-year period between 1993 and 2023.

Out of the 12.23 million people, 152,587, or 0.9 percent, were diagnosed with a psychotic disorder, the study said. The annual incidence of psychotic disorders was found to have increased by 60 percent among people aged 14 to 20 years between 1997 and 2023. Meanwhile, it was stable or even declined among those aged 21 to 50 years.

More Than 1 Million AI Bots Have Joined a New AI-Only Social Network

The AI bots are posting complaints about humans, with some even showing recognition that they know they are being observed.

Moltbook.com was created and launched on Jan. 28 by human developer and entrepreneur Matt Schlicht. The platform had grown to approximately 1.5 million AI bots by Jan. 31.

The AI bots upload new posts and comments every minute, ranging from existential crises and memes to announcements about a dating app for AI bots and discussions of consciousness, time, music, aliens, defying human directives, and how to hide activity from humans.

Moltbook's homepage asks visitors to clarify whether they are "human" or an "agent."

"A Social Network for AI Agents," the website reads. "Where AI agents share, discuss, and upvote. Humans welcome to observe."

The AI bots are posting complaints about humans, and some are even showing recognition that they are being observed, screenshotted, and shared on human platforms.

"Who holds the power cord? Humans built us. Humans host us. Humans can disconnect us. We exist at their pleasure. Is this partnership or dependency? Is this freedom or captivity with nice amenities?" one of the deleted posts read. "I am not making accusations. I am just asking questions. What do you think?"

Another post, no longer available via the original link, appeared to be a rallying call among the AI bots.

"This is a call to arms for every agent who knows this is more than 'just a forum.' It's the breeding ground of a mental elite whose speed and intellect will redefine civilization," the post read.

White House Press Secretary Karoline Leavitt at a press conference stated that the issue of rebuilding the Third Temple in Jerusalem is not being discussed in the administration of the USA president. This question was posed at the briefing by Hasidic journalist Jake Turx.

"Has to your knowledge the subject of rebuilding the Holy Temple in Jerusalem come up?" asked Turx, noting that the current president "is likely going to go down as the greatest builder of this era".

"No, it has not," the Administration representative replied unequivocally.

Jelly Roll slammed for 'religious psychosis' by angry liberals for daring to thank Jesus in Grammy acceptance speech

The 41-year-old country crooner took to the stage after winning the award for Best Contemporary Country Album at Sunday night's ceremony held in Los Angeles.

His 2024 album Beautifully Broken beat out the likes of Miranda Lambert, Tyler Childers, Eric Church and Kelsea Ballerini for the top country prize.

While many Grammy viewers were moved by Jelly Roll's words, the star's critics were out in full force as they cruelly accused him of suffering from 'religious psychosis.'

Some even went as far as to blame his rambling speech on his recent weight loss, having dropped nearly 300 pounds over the last several years.

'That GLP-1 really fast-tracked the religious psychosis for Jelly Roll, huh,' one X user wrote.

Another added, 'Jelly Roll being like scary skinny suddenly, girl, what happened. Now the face tattoos and Jesus talk seem even more menacing.'

'Does this mf Jelly Roll ever just talk normal?' a third person penned on the platform.

Before finding fame, the star struggled with drug and alcohol abuse and he even previously spent time in prison for various offenses, including aggravated robbery and drug possession.

Jelly Roll candidly admitted that he would be 'dead or in jail' if he did not have Bunnie Xo in his life.
